WHOLE AREA MAY VOTE ON FLUORIDATION ISSUE

Esquimalt Likely To Consent

A December referendum on fluoridation in all four Greater Victoria municipalities — including holdout Esquimalt — now appears possible.

"And the pro-fluoridation committee of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce will fire its biggest campaign cannon just before voting day with the mailing out of 50,000 sets of pamphlets, the Colonist also learned last night.

"It may be that since Oak Bay, Saanich and, I hear, Victoria, are in favor, then the councillors may change their opinion," said Esquimalt's Reeve A. C. Wurtele last night.

"I can't think that we would ever be that stubborn," he said. (Apparently a reference to the fact Esquimalt is "first on the tap" in a joint water connection with Victoria and Saanich, which would be out of luck if Esquimalt said "no.") Chamber committee chairman Ira Hill, asked what he thought of the suggestion from some quarters that a public forum be held on the question, said:

NOT INTERESTED

"You won't get any of our doctors and dentists going for a public forum. They're not interested in arguing about it. We aim to keep the public informed through the news papers," he said.

50,000 PAMPHLETS
"We'll also be sending pamphlets to every household in Greater Victoria—50,000 of them."

Another committee member, Eric Mallett, indicated last night that a public forum would serve no useful purpose.

GIFT OF GAB

"Look at what happened when we held a public rally on amalgamation," he said. "All the 'antis' with the gift of gab turned out." (Victoria voted 2 to 1 for, and Saanich voted 2 to 1 against, thus killing the merger.)

So far, only two municipalities—Saanich and Oak Bay—have officially decided to hold referendums.

VOTE IN FAVOR

But a poll of Victoria aldermen earlier this week indicated that city council, at its next meeting, will vote in favor of putting the issue to the voters.

Esquimalt council decided Oct. 26 against a vote, on the grounds there was too little time for council to study the matter and also for the voters to be properly informed.

NOT STUBBORN

"Contrary to what some people think, we're not a bit stubborn out here," Reeve Wurtele said last night.

He had just been asked what was his stand and what he thought council would be in the light of three out of four municipalities wanting a referendum.

LOTS OF THOUGHT

"We give lots of thought and deliberation to these problems," he said.

"Personally I feel, if the majority want a vote on fluoridation this December, I would be one of the last ever to hold them up."

Mayor Wins, Nikita Cheers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Mayor George Christopher received a note of congratulations upon his re-election yesterday from Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The Soviet leader, who, during his visit here in September, endorsed Christopher for re-election, said in his message of congratulations that he "undoubtedly would have voted for" him.

"I am very glad that my opinion coincided with that of the citizens of San Francisco," Khrushchev said.

Service Arms Should Unite Says Pearson

MONTREAL (UPI)—Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson suggested last night that the time might be ripe to merge Canada's three armed services into a single national force.

The old distinctions between army, navy and air force were becoming "increasingly meaningless," he told an Air Force Veterans Association armistice dinner.

Defence needs in the missile age led inevitably to "complete co-ordination of armed services, amounting to single control," he said. No one would be opposed to such a move if it was in the national interest, he added.

The Liberal leader called for a select Parliamentary committee or royal commission to investigate such questions as co-ordination of services and readjustment of defence expenditures. What was needed primarily, he said, was the "most thorough and complete re-examination of our whole defence policy."

Canada, as a middle power, should concentrate on two main defence goals—contributions to a defence coalition and to an international police force, Pearson said. Today's defence needs were too complicated and expensive for a country of this size to try and meet all possible factors, he said.

At the same time, he added, it would be folly for a superpower to concentrate merely on the ultimate weapons of nuclear power. Such a policy could convert a limited conflict into an all-destructive war, he said.

Fog, Ice, Snow

Europe Shivers As Winter Hits

LONDON (Reuters)—Winter slammed into many parts of Europe Friday, bringing deep snows to the Italian Apennines and fog and ice in several other countries.

Drifts up to nearly three feet blocked about 200 trucks on one of the main highways linking Florence and Bologna. In the Italian Alps, several villages were isolated by floods.

In Britain, frost and fog upset road and rail traffic and delayed air services.

Britain's first super-highway, blanketed in thick fog, recorded its first fatal accident. The London-to-Birmingham highway was opened only five days ago.

Two men were killed when two trucks piled into the back of another truck and a police vehicle towing it.

Nixon Seeks Odd Refuge

Finlayson Agrees with Ottawa, Ship Cost 'Cause for Concern'

VANCOUVER (CP)—The federal government had no choice but to accept the lowest bids tendered for the construction of two ships for the West Indies costing about $5,000,000 each, Deane Finlayson, provincial Progressive Conservative leader, said Friday.

"I think that it is cause for concern here that our yards in British Columbia were approximately $1,000,000 higher than the yards which were awarded the contracts in eastern Canada," he said.

Mr. Finlayson's statement also said that Premier Bennett was "the architect of his own undoing" in failing to get a higher share of tax money under federal-provincial agreements.

"If our case is weak, it is weak because he alone has ruined it by his claim of tremendous prosperity in B.C.," he said.

Four Killed as Roof Caves

Tons of Concrete Crash on Workers

No Proof Laos Invaded

A UN fact-finding mission to Laos reported Friday that it didn't find proof of Communist aggression against the Southeast Asian kingdom which sits in the shadow of Red China.

The four-nation subcommittee of the UN Security Council said the information it received did not establish whether or not there had been crossings of the border by Communist troops from neighboring Communist North Viet Nam.

But the subcommittee—representing Argentina, Italy, Tunisia and Japan—did say there was evidence Laotian rebels received military supplies and political advisers from Communist sources.

MONTREAL (CP)—Four men were killed Friday when a freshly poured concrete roof, laced through with steel reinforcing rods, collapsed while a construction crew worked on it.

All of the workers on the job were not accounted for until nearly 10 hours after the collapse.

Twenty were injured, none critically. Six remained in hospital in good condition and 14 were released after treatment.

Cause of the crash remained a mystery.

Police, firemen and other members of the construction gang used bulldozers, cutting torches and their own hands to probe the rubble. Ambulances stood by in case their efforts turned up any survivors.

But there was little hope

Jet Missile Test-Fired

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—A turbojet-powered Snark guided missile carrying a dummy version of the nuclear warhead it could deliver at intercontinental range was fired on a 5,000-mile test flight yesterday.

that anyone could be alive under the tons of wet concrete that thundered down at the east-end plant of Johnson and Johnson, a surgical supply company. Rescue work grew increasingly difficult as the concrete slowly hardened.

About 50 men were pouring the concrete roof for a one-storey extension to the plant when it suddenly gave way.

Lucien Trepanier, operating a crane hoisting buckets of the wet cement to roof level, said it felt with a roar "just like a thunderclap." The concrete was being poured about 10 inches thick.

"We heard everyone shouting for help. It was a terrible thing."

Rene Morisset, superintendent with the Donolo Construction Company building the extension, said:

"I don't really know how it came down. Things happened so fast."

Dead are: Andrew Kish, 58, a carpenter foreman for Donolo; Alme Monette, 45, of Montreal's Rosemount district; Jack Manduzzi, 23, of suburban St. Michel; and Akular Fillipo, who died later in hospital.

Dam Proposed

Lands and Forest Minister Ray Williston, speaking at Nelson yesterday, promised the provincial government will finance the construction of the $66,000,000 high Arrow Lakes dam on the Columbia River if three requirements are met—approval of Kootenay residents, development of fully-effective flood control, and equitable power benefits from the United States.

Driver Killed, Five Injured

MELVILLE, Sask. (CP)—A head-on collision near this railway and farming town Friday night killed driver Adam Crookshanks, 40, and sent five others to hospital.

Old Hearts Replaced

Middle Age Will Begin at 100

LONDON (Reuters)—Man's life span will have been extended to from 150 to 200 years by the year 2009, a Russian scientist predicted Friday. Dr. Vladimir Demikhov, quoted by the Soviet news agency Tass, made the prediction in an article in the Moscow Evening News.

He added that 50 years from now Soviet hospital patients will be mostly middle-aged persons having aging hearts, lungs, kidneys and other organs painlessly replaced.

Medicine 50 years hence will concentrate on preventing diseases and postponing old age. The transfer of organs will have become a popular and safe method of treatment, Demikhov added.

Demikhov is noted for his experiments in transplanting the organs of animals. A week ago, he showed a Moscow lecture audience a dog which he said had been living for two weeks with two hearts.

Turning to the human application of these experiments, he said that transplanting—even temporarily—of a new organ might lead to recovery of a diseased or injured one.

The possibility is not excluded that implanting younger organs might rejuvenate the whole organism, he said.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

MARGARET L. MURRAY made a name for herself as the publisher of Canada's liveliest weekly. Her Alaska Highway News was rich with slang, insult and rough, kindly praise of good actions.

Mrs. Murray often used the columns of her paper as a substitute for letter-writing. Instead of replying to a correspondent directly, she would send a letter to the printer.

An unwary friend who wrote to Mrs. Murray ran the risk of having his letter appear in the News.

Some time ago Mrs. Murray handed the Alaska Highway News over to the next generation. But she wasn't able to stay idle for long.

Last month, at the age of 71, Mrs. Murray published the first number of another frontier newspaper, the Fort Nelson News, 250-odd miles along the Alaska Highway northeast of Fort St. John.

She's running her new paper in the same rip-roaring way that made the Alaska Highway News famous from coast to coast.

Here's an editorial from the Fort Nelson News that gives the flavor of Mrs. Murray's prose. I make no comment, one way or the other, on her opinions:

"This is an appropriate line for ex-mayor Don McKay of Calgary, who for 14 years whooped Calgary up from a mediocre cow town to the most publicized and loved city in all Canada.

"Don got ulcers, from drinking civic cocktails with the hoi polloi from Timbuctoo or to hell and gone. He got fallen arches from standing in line receiving civic functions.

"He got hangnails from frustration over small-minded officials who took the kudos off Don's suffering and success and then let Don down with a paltry expense account, a niggardly salary and a jealous executive.

"The people of Calgary have a good deal to answer for in the shabby loyalty they did not give Don, when he was under the gun for a few bags of cement.

"Don also got censured for taking a trip some guy paid for, who likely had a 'consuents' feeling after cleaning up on some deal after a million satisfied customers had come to Calgary to see Don McKay—at Stampede time.

"The people make thugs out of their public men nowadays. They expect public men to do a job and then when it is done in style like Don's, they persecute him for the methods he had to use on their behalf.

"CALGARY WILL NEVER BE THE SAME."

That's Mrs. Murray—a loyal frontier publisher who speaks up for her friends and her beliefs with revival-meeting eloquence.

"If the Public Utilities could only have taken over," she says of Fort Nelson, "what a sweeter winter we could have had, but we'll just have to hold our noses and congratulate ourselves that Tokyo smells a darn sight worse.

"Look at all the conversation pieces we are building up at the rugged northland of Mile 300. All the rest of our lives we can be telling how we roughed it at Fort Nelson the winter of 1959 without plumbing, paving or pouring water.

"... Money... is tight... (but) there will be plenty of folding money earned the next five months and everyone will forget about the uneasy waiting time.

"Let's all shove the corners up. Let's smile for the joy of the living, keep our fingers crossed so that we will treat the workers well who will come to Fort Nelson for the first time. Practise consideration and fair dealing.

"Let us make the most of the opportunities for ourselves, but let the other guy get a break too."

Patricia Blondal Funeral Today

Well-known Canadian novelist, Patricia Blondal, 32, who based her recent novel, "Strangers to Love," in Victoria and Vancouver Island, died of cancer this week in Montreal.

She is survived here by her father, Nathaniel Jenkins, 814 Old Esquimalt Road, a brother, Walter, at 3229 Carman, and two sisters, Mrs. Esther Gavel, 2122 Neal, and Mrs. Nora Mainwaring, 1250 Revercomb. A brother, Maj. David Jenkins, lives in Vancouver.

Her husband, Dr. Harold Blondal, is a medical researcher in Montreal. A son, 4 and a daughter, 7, also survive.

A frequent visitor to Victoria, Mrs. Blondal, who wrote about the mythical town of "Brynton" on the Island, says in the final instalment of her novel which appeared this month in Chatelaine: "And when I die, I shall come to Brynton..."

The funeral will be held today in Montreal.

"Strangers to Love" is under option to a New York publishing house and her most recent work, "A Candle to Light the Sun," is scheduled for publication this coming spring in Toronto.

Mrs. Blondal, born in Souris, Man., was a graduate of the University of Manitoba in 1946. She worked in radio as a broadcaster and writer and in the public relations field in Winnipeg.

CDR. KENNETH LEWIS... saved lives

P.O. RICHARD SEAGER... danger in bilge

Bravery Citation For Navy Trio

Three Victoria-based members of the Royal Canadian Navy have been awarded the Queen's commendation for brave conduct, naval headquarters here announced yesterday.

Honored for their actions in fighting a serious fire in the engine room and bilges of the Norwegian vessel Ferngulf near Vancouver May 1 were: Cdr. Kenneth E. Lewis, 2162 Lafayette, then squadron technical officer aboard HMCS Assiniboine; P.O. Richard G. Seager, 1156 Heald, then aboard HMCS Saguenay; and L.S. Clyde Rose, 1749 Coronation.

When fire followed an explosion aboard the Ferngulf, a 20-man volunteer team was formed from two Canadian warships and a U.S. submarine berthed at Centennial Pier in Vancouver to fight the flames.

Cdr. Lewis led the team, and the citation says his bravery and coolness saved lives that would have been lost had the ship blown up.

PO Seager led a group of the team fighting fire in the bilge, where oil from broken lines had flooded to make fire-fighting extremely dangerous.

LS Rose on several occasions volunteered for the risky task of crawling into the bilges to take out and extinguish burning debris.

No date has been set for presentation of the commendations.

Demand is brisk for other commodities, too, including butter and apples.

Sources said the government could have sold every pound of its dried milk surplus in the last month.

British Columbia agricultural exhibitions and fall fairs want a green light to hold prize-draws on the sale of advance tickets.

Some 45 delegates from all parts of the province, attending the annual meeting of the B.C. Fairs Association held yesterday in the Empress Hotel, decided to take their requests to Ottawa.

Present regulations only permit prize-awards if the tickets are bought on the fairgrounds during the run of the fair.

Delegates argued that an advance ticket sale, with prizes as a spur, is the only means by which exhibitions can offset losses incurred when bad weather hits during the run of the fair.

This year's Saanichton fair was cited as an example of financial losses caused by rain.

Agriculture Minister Steacy told delegates at a luncheon meeting that fairs provide a "shop window" for the agricultural economy of the province.

"This is where the producers' efforts are criticized, and criticism, if constructive, is another word for progress," the minister said.

Bonner Opposes 'Free Narcotics'

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said yesterday that the government still opposes free narcotics for addicts on a provincial basis, but "nationally it could be a different matter."

He said in an interview that narcotic suppression is the responsibility of the federal government and the possibility of establishing the British system of free administration of drugs on a national basis might be worth study.

He felt there was no substitute for "effective national action" on the drug problem.

However, free administration

Jacques Caught In Drafts

Shares Pin-Up

LONDON (UPI)—Thursday morning Jacques Charrier was the husband of Brigitte Bardot. By night-fall he was Private Second Class Charrier in the French army, caught in the draft.

"What a shock they had in store for him when he was taken to his barracks room at Orange," the Daily Mirror said.

"He took one step inside and recoiled with a gasp!

$300,000 Plan Set For Uplands Park

A master plan to bring Uplands Park up to the standard of Beacon Hill—at a cost of more than $300,000—over 24 years—is expected to be ratified soon by Oak Bay council.

"We've got the plan and it's tion instigated by one province and not by others would only result in an upsurge in the addict population in that province.

Mr. Bonner said there has been more success with women addicts than with men at the Oakalla Prison Farm drug centre which is costing the government $56,000 a year.

But he pointed out that authorities have no control over addicts after discharge. Any follow up work could only be done if the addict volunteered.

"I think," he said, "it would be most useful if some conditional discharge for addicts could be legislated, but that is a federal matter."

He added that no approaches have been made to Ottawa on this possibility since "our thinking is still tentative."

British Columbia is estimated to have some 2,500 drug addicts, centred mainly in the Vancouver area.

Big Labor Hassle Faces the Nation

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's biggest labor hassle has started.

It involves 15 unions bargaining for about 120,000 railway workers across Canada versus six railways, including the CPR and CNR, and a railway express agency.

At stake, the railways say, is more than $65,000,000 a year.

The unions—known generally as the "non-op unions" because they represent most railway workers who do not operate trains—want:

1. A pay increase of 25 cents an hour starting next January.
2. Statutory holidays for some 4,500 track repairmen.

The railways have said the new demands would entail a 30-per-cent freight rate boost to cover their cost, on top of a 15-per-cent rate application still outstanding because of a government-imposed rate freeze.

JOE HARDEN

RITA MONTIVEROS

LONDON (AP)—Ship's steward Joe Harden had all the comforts of home on both ends of the South American run—a wife in London, a wife in Buenos Aires.

When his ship docked in a London mist, the English wife, Rose, had his slippers waiting by the fire. When he went ashore in Buenos Aires, Rita Catalina Montiveros—Senora Harden—cooked him exotic dishes.

IDYLIC SITUATION

Supporting two wives was, naturally, expensive. But for the 48-year-old steward, it was a sort of idyllic situation.

Friday, the story of Joe's colorful romance was unfolded as he stood in the dock on a bigamy charge.

MAN AND WIVES

"Harden was married in England in 1932," said prosecutor Mervyn Griffith-Jones.

"In July, 1958, he went through a form of marriage in Montevideo with Miss Montiveros. From then on, they lived as man and wife when he was in South America and he continued to live with his lawful wife when he was in England."

The prosecutor explained this state of affairs might have gone on unchecked had not he arranged last September for Miss Montiveros to visit England.

LOVE AND DUTY

"She wrote him a letter which was sent to his home address and was opened by his wife. Thus the matter came to light."

"This is a case," said defence counsel Colin Hart-Laverton, "of a man torn between his love and his duty."

Joe said very little except to plead guilty. He was convicted but allowed to go without penalty on condition that he mend his ways and avoid bigamy in future.

The court was told that he now is living with Rita in London. Joe's English wife has said she will seek legal separation.

Cool Ants Generate Own Anti-Freeze

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Like motorists, ants use anti-freeze when cold weather sets in.

University of Minnesota scientists have found that carpenter ants and certain wood-boring insects are able to generate glycerol within their bodies whenever temperatures drop below a certain point. Glycerol is an alcohol similar to the product used in car radiators in winter.

RCMP Check Loggers After Camps Close

HOPE (CP)—Some 100 loggers, left without work after logging operators in the Hope area closed down in protest against trucks being ticketed for overweight, held an open-air meeting near here Friday. They dispersed quietly after a portable weighing scale used to check logging trucks at Silver Creek was removed and after RCMP addressed them.

Provincial Transport Minister Lyle Wicks said his department was investigating the problem. He said the assessments were not fines, but bills for overloading.

A spokesman for the operators said, "we can't afford to run our trucks half-loaded."

32 Climbers Vanish In Himalaya Snows

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—Thirty-two persons—three Japanese mountain climbers and 29 Nepal porters—have vanished in an attempt to climb 23,340-foot Mount Gauri Sankar.

Two runners brought word Friday that the expedition disappeared in mid-October, when severe avalanches swept the Himalayas and no trace of it has been found.

If all are dead, it will be the worst disaster in the Himalayas mountaineering history.

Patching Won't Cure It

WITH due respect to Mr. C. C. Wyatt, Victoria's city manager and a competent civic official, patching the present cost-sharing formula for the financing of education in British Columbia under one head or another is not likely to cure its primary defect. That is that the tax on land and property values—the principle means of raising main municipal revenues—is today inadequate to its purpose and as each year goes by may become more so. From the time of the first report on education costs in this province onward to the present that weakness has been recognized, but it has not been acted upon by any administration in power over the Bay.

If Victoria seriously means to challenge the present provincial-municipal school costs formula something more pertinent than a relatively small disability against the capital city's position within its own school district would seem to be required. Mr. Wyatt is no doubt correct in his accounting of what has happened in the past, in which he states that the city over the period has paid some $2,000,000 above its apparent share to the school costs of the joint school district; but his report does not put the situation in perspective.

Victoria may have been mulcted of part of its federal grant-in-lieu on tax exempt properties, but it has been allotted the business tax as one means of assisting its revenues. There are other considerations, too, which cannot be indicated on a cost-account presentation. Larger school districts were formed years ago as one means of improving the level of education everywhere in B.C. Victoria and its three municipal neighbors simply have not the means to carry that burden in a disintegrated, piecemeal fashion in a balkanized area. Property values in the city exist first because it is the hub of a region with 127,000 people, and the fact that a few more extra-mural pupils attend city schools than vice versa has to be accepted in consequence.

This is not to say that Victoria, along with other B.C. centres, should not look to the Province both for a fact-finding inquiry into the risen costs of education and reconsideration of the means of how best these can be borne.

In this respect, Reeve Murison, of North Cowichan, appears to be much closer to the root of the matter when he attacks land-assessment for school financing in its entirety. Patching the present formula will not cure it.

Spoiling the Show

THE premier has announced that British Columbia will hold another mammoth 100th birthday celebration—presumably if he is still in office, since a successor could have other ideas—this time to mark the union of the mainland with Vancouver Island in 1866. The province is still recovering from its exuberant blow-out of last year; another one so soon might be overdoing things.

It would clash also with the national project of celebrating the centenary of Confederation in 1967, which invites the whole-hearted support of the country as a whole. It would be a pity to stage a rival show at roughly the same time, for preparations for the 1967 anniversary will be gathering steam all during the year before. British Columbia can scarcely shirk its part in that occasion, and it can hardly stage two major celebrations successfully. One or other would fall between the two stools.

These anniversary dates that come upon us are confusing in any case. There were divergent opinions about last year's 100th birthday, which in essence paid tribute only to the "name" of British Columbia. Some historians view the beginnings of this province as in 1843 when James Douglas landed in Victoria to begin the skein of events resulting in the B.C. of today; or, alternatively, as in 1849 when the crown colony of Vancouver Island was proclaimed. Last year's provincial celebration actually marked the mainland colony's 100th birthday alone.

It can be said equally that Canada's beginnings go back long before the Confederation of 1867, and also that B.C. did not come into the confederation until 1871. The date 1867 marks the creation of Canada as a national state, however, and the annual July 1 observance is thus from the Canadian standpoint the most important date in the calendar. Any centenary celebration to mark this distinctive event should have priority all across the land. One hopes that B.C. will not spoil the unanimity by holding a second centenary of its own.

Steer Clear of Towlines

AUTUMN may not be the most appropriate time of year to draw attention to it, but an accident which occurred in Active Pass on Thursday night illustrates a very common danger to operators of small boats. Three men on their way to a school board meeting came close to losing their lives when the 32-foot cruiser in which they were travelling fouled the towline between a tugboat and a barge negotiating the pass. Their survival in the circumstances borders on the miraculous.

In daylight an experienced boat handler may be able to judge whether or not it is possible to pass between a tugboat and its tow, though it is a risky thing to do under any condition. In darkness no one can do so, and the only safe procedure is to stop or alter course to permit both to pass. It is no time to stand on one's assumed rights of way as granted by the rules of the road at sea, because a tug and tow cannot easily be manoeuvred.

This accident provides a second valuable lesson in seamanship for amateurs: the importance of observing and understanding the meaning of all navigation lights. Every vessel proceeding with something in tow must display lights not only advertising that fact but also the number of vessels in tow. Thus a tugboat complying with the regulations gives ample warning to all other shipping in the vicinity of the dangers following behind her.

In waters like those between Vancouver Island and the mainland where much of the freight movement is by barge, knowledge of all the rules and not just those of port and starboard is vitally important.

Interpreting the News

Playing in the Lead

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

THE success of the United Nations resolution on disarmament negotiated by Vasily V. Kuznetsov of the Soviet Union and Henry Cabot Lodge of the United States gives hope of some progress on the peaceful uses of outer space.

The Russians, riding high on the prestige of moon missiles and Premier Khrushchev's slycase diplomacy, have been playing a starring role at the 14th General Assembly. It's likely they'll try to continue.

Kuznetsov took the initiative on the disarmament proposal and apparently made some fairly worthwhile concessions, in phrasing at least, to get unanimous agreement.

"The Russians really wanted this one," said one diplomat. "They didn't want anything to go wrong."

True, the resolution reads along the lines of the proverbial injunction against sin, which is all the more reason people aren't scoffing at it.

No one was scoffing, either, at Khrushchev's plan for total disarmament within four years. That would have sounded like mocking peace.

It would have been equally foolish to dismiss lightly the Soviet call for an international conference of scientists to swap experiences in exploring outer space, especially in view of Russia's feats out there.

Lodge let it be known that he was looking for more private talks with Kuznetsov, leading observers to believe that he was hoping to reach an accord as agreeable, or nearly so, as the one on disarmament.

A working paper was drawn up containing the essential points of a resolution for establishment of a permanent body to encourage the peaceful uses of outer space.

The Soviet Union, Poland and Czechoslovakia were placed on a temporary 18-nation committee established by the General Assembly last December. However, the three Soviet bloc members boycotted the group on the ground that it had a Western majority, and they were joined by India and the United Arab Republic.

Other members of that committee are Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Britain, Canada, France, Iran, Italy, Japan, Mexico, Sweden and the United States.

Half a Pound Of Bolomal

By CASSANDRA, from London

ELECTRONIC computers which can compose melodies, write bad poetry, bark like dogs and solve prodigious equations in split thousandths of a second, are becoming as common as the abacus in the Far East.

They have not yet learned to make love, pluck a chicken, peel an onion or bake a cake, as far as I know, but the tasks they take on are becoming increasingly complex.

One of the latest roles assumed by these mindless, clever brutes at the Atomic Energy Authority's establishment at Risley is the invention of new names. As millions of new chemical substances are being produced it is necessary to christen them.

In order to make them pronounceable the human masters of the computer deprived the machine of certain letters, and the monstrous heap of wire and steel and glass and amps and volts and ohms was ordered to make new seven letter names all ending in AL, EX and OL using alternate consonants and vowels.

Away it went in a lightning tear-away-rush spitting out words like LAKUBEX, NAKEDAL, PALIFEX, FEMERAL, ROPASAL, RISAFIN, RARUKIN and METIKIN.

It's easy, anybody can do it. Just watch me.

"Half a pound of BOLOMAL please."

"Shall I wrap it up?" No, better just tie it with a little LOVAGAL."

"Certainly. Will you take it with you or shall I send it along with the ROLOKIN?"

"Please. And while you are about it you might include three ounces of NUDEKIN and a pint of MAGESEX."

IF further proof were required of the crudity of Fidel Castro's dictatorship, which, as a result of his repeated performances in front of the cameras has developed into government by television, it is given by his latest decree that summary courts-martial are to be resumed.

Over 600 persons lost their lives in front of his firing squads when he first took power.

When Castro appealed for popular support for the resumption of the deadly revolutionary tribunals, he was received by the mob yelling "To the walls! To the walls!"

People who indulge in this sort of stuff usually come to a very sticky end. Has dictator Castro never heard of dictator Mussolini?

WE will silently pause in respectful memory of a housemaid said to have been employed by Sir Edmund Gosse.

Sir Edmund, who died just over 30 years ago, was a poet, a critic, an essayist, a naturalist and a librarian. The housemaid, whose name is unfortunately not known, admired her distinguished employer, especially the poet in him and, as a token of her esteem, she took up verse herself.

Would that she had been alive this week to see the evidence that the Russian satellite has provided in its televised pictures of the other side of the moon. For it was Sir Edmund's little servant in the solitude of her room who wrote these spiffing words:

"O moon! When I look on thy beautiful face,
Careering along through the boundaries of space,
The thought has frequently come to my mind
If ever I'll gaze on thy glorious behind."

Postscripts to the above:
No poet worth his long, lank locks can afford to ignore the moon. My Dictionary of Quotations records no fewer than 126 entries about the moon; eight on moonlight and three on moonbeams.

The winner of the Nobel prize for literature is Signor Salvatore Quasimodo. He recently wrote a poem entitled "The New Moon." The theme? Russian scientists who are "continuing the divine work of God."

BRITISH hotels have improved a great deal in the last two or three years. The food is immeasurably better, the service is often excellent and most managements are determined to welcome their guests. No longer are you made to feel an interloper.

Regular visitors to this country from abroad, who are in the best position to judge our hotel-keeping and to observe the changes, are at times almost embarrassingly enthusiastic. But there is one comparatively new and infuriating practice that we seem to be importing from the French.

That is the overall service charge. When you have paid 25 bob for bed and breakfast it is maddening to have to fork out an extra 10 per cent in addition to the two or three other tips that are customary.

The French have upped their iniquitous raga-off to 15 per cent. Our people should abandon the practice and should stick to the advertised charges without these sly levies.

Luniks or Lunch?

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

NOTICE where Russia wants Italy to sell them goods in the amount of $100,000,000 on credit. With all this sudden desire for total disarmament and love-dovey peace talk by Mr. K., along with other proposals for more trade with the West, could it be that the Reds are in pretty bad financial circumstances? Mr. K. may be more worried about his own hide than world peace.

That is a quotation from a letter just received from a Second World War veteran who is hibernating in the country after a heart attack. He is thus on the outside looking in, and in that brief paragraph he has sized up Premier Khrushchev's latest dramatic performance on the world's stage.

It is doubtful, however, that Mr. K.'s sudden change of front is due to financial troubles. That request for a mere million dollars credit from little Italy is just a bit of strategic play to get into the big western market by the back door. There is no doubt that the Russian proletariat want peace and are getting vocally impatient at the delay of the promised Utopia of communism.

The American Exhibition in Moscow, with its rich display of consumer goods, was a revelation to the huge crowds of Russian people who attended it. Mr. Khrushchev himself was one of the spectators, and his later visit to the United States must have impressed him with the contrast between the high standard of living under a free democracy and the bare existence condition of his own people under a social system that he had boasted would ultimately be adopted by the Western world.

At the same time Mr. Khrushchev is unconsciously paying a backhand compliment to the social system of the United States by telling the Russian people that the Soviet would catch up with American production of consumer goods.

He must have a pretty low opinion of the intelligence of the Russian proletariat when he condemns the capitalist system as obsolete and oppressive and in the same breath holds up the standard of living of the greatest capitalist country in the world as an example for their achievement.

There must be little comfort for the Russian proletariat in the fact that the United States is falling far behind in the production of rockets and Sputniks. If they were given a choice between free trips to the moon and a better standard of life on this earth, they would gladly dispense with the Soviet scientists and forget all about the vacuous regions of space. They would prefer to fill the vacuums in their own homes and stomachs, and they have recently been giving voice to that preference.

Mr. Khrushchev, in his "love-dovey peace talks," is more concerned with peace at home than in the world at large. The Soviet announcement, that it is going to provide the people with vastly more and better consumer goods, explains a lot. Tennyson put it into two lines of his Locksley Hall: "Slowly comes a hungry people, as a lion, creeping nigher, Glares at one that nods and winks behind a slowly dying fire."

Reports from Ottawa

SOME of the glitter has been knocked off the St. Lawrence Seaway in the first year of operation.

At the end of this month the $460,000,000 waterway will pack it up for the winter, not to reopen until next April.

Indications are that 1959 traffic through the international seaway will total less than 19,000,000 tons, a 25 per cent shortfall from the 25,000,000-ton estimate on which 50-year amortization tolls had been based.

Moreover, the season's operations have shown the seaway seriously deficient in several respects.

The most serious shortcoming is the Welland Canal, which bypasses Niagara Falls. It proved wholly inadequate to cope with a heavy flow of seaway traffic.

Three of the Welland's seven locks already are twinned, or duplicated, and the twinning of the other four is being advocated to ease the bottleneck. But experts disagree as to how much this would reduce shipping delay at either end of the Welland. There would still remain some 26 miles of channel dug for single-lock traffic which to some extent would be inadequate for double-lock traffic.

Some authorities recommend construction of a separate new canal, which might be located in Canada, or perhaps preferably in the U.S. On the basis of present land, material and other costs, it's estimated that a new canal would cost more than twice as much as the $132,000,000 Canada spent to build the Welland in the early 1930s.

It is obvious that the government here is reluctant to face even the $150,000,000 estimated cost of duplicating the four single Welland locks.

Old Nimrod Survives

By GREGORY CLARK

DURING this week, from island to island in Canada (we have to say "island to island" now instead of coast to coast, meaning from the far side of Newfoundland to the far side of Vancouver Island) big game hunters to the number of several hundred thousand are on the prowl in forest, mountain and muskeg in search of deer, moose, caribou, elk, sheep, goat, bear. No authentic count of the number of hunters issued licences in all provinces, plus non-resident hunters from south of the border, has been announced in recent years. But it is a far larger number than is generally supposed or that a population of 17,000,000, mostly urban, would seem to support.

The massive urbanization of the Canadian people in the past generation might be expected to reduce the proportion of men attracted to the rough sport of large game hunting. Spectator sports are the big thing in urban civilizations, rather than the recreation that demands a greater effort than buying a grandstand ticket. Licence sales, however, show that tens of thousands of city men head for the bush in November.

But it is the small towns and villages and the farms that provide the bulk of Canada's hunters. There are villages all across the country that are practically deserted of men for a week or two each November.

There is a streak of Old Nimrod in not of Old Nick in plenty of Canadians still, despite all the refining influences of our era.

With the Classics

Beauty, thou active, passive ill!
Which diest thy self as fast as thou dost kill!
Thou tulip, who thy stock in paint dost waste,
Neither for physic good, nor smell, nor taste.
Beauty, whose flames but meteors are,
Short-lived and low, though thou wouldst seem a star,
Who dar'st not thine own home desecry,
Pretending to dwell richly in the eye,
When thou, alas, dost in the fancy lie.

Hard to Replace

Certain of your correspondents have advocated that civil servants should quit if they are not satisfied with the treatment they have received from the government.

It astounds me that Canadians are so ignorant of the varied skills and abilities needed by their employees as these suggestions imply. Included in the approximately 150,000 federal civil servants are meteorologists, biologists, meat inspectors, nurses, engineers, accountants, postmen, stenographers, clerks and many other professions and trades.

At least 90% of these employees are seriously concerned at the government's refusal to implement the recommendations of its own pay research bureau which was established for the explicit purpose of advising the government in the matter of civil service salaries. The employees are also concerned that they have not the protection of the law, as all other Canadian workers have, in ensuring that their employers negotiate with them. The government, while forcing all other employers to negotiate with their employees, has refused to extend this right to civil servants.

Do your correspondents seriously consider that the people of Canada would be benefited by these tens of thousands of employees leaving their positions? Do they believe that these countless types and classifications of positions can be filled so easily? If they do, I respectfully suggest that they inform themselves by contacting the civil service commission.

In spite of the treatment meted out to them by the government, the employees will remain at their posts, will deliver the mail, will prepare pension cheques, in the hope that the public, their real employers, being informed of the actual situation, will not wish to see their servants victimized.

Milk Measurement

The fluid ounce is defined in the Dominion Weights and Measures Act as the volume occupied by one ounce avoirdupois of water under specific conditions of temperature and barometric pressure, and is a legal unit of measure.

If regulations can be made by the provincial authorities re the measure of milk, why can such products as soup, tomato juice, etc., be put up in any quantity convenient to the manufacturer whether 12, 28 or any number of fluid ounces as stated on the container.

'Fantastic Wages'

What is this virus that for these last 10 or 12 years has so plagued our industrial life and appears to be so well established now, that all types of citizens on a payroll automatically seem to expect another raise? The slogan nowadays is "no contract, no work," the contract good for one year.

Without any doubt these fantastically high wages are gradually robbing us of our export markets, and internally, in Canada, some people are compelled to paint their own houses or otherwise let property deteriorate, or plumbing, or chimney sweeping or what have you.

The time is long past due that we should really settle down to work, putting Canada's interests first.

Alberta Servants Quit Labor Body

CALGARY (CP)—The 9,000-member Civil Service Association of Alberta Friday voted to withdraw from the Canadian Labor Congress and the Alberta Federation of Labor.

The decision was made at the association's annual meeting despite a plea by CLC vice-president William Dodge for a joint committee to resolve their differences concerning labor's participation in politics.

The civil servants had suspended their membership in the Alberta Federation of Labor last month when they walked out of a meeting in Edmonton in protest of a resolution supporting a political party formed by a merger of organized labor and CCF.

Of 90 voting delegates at the association's three-day conference, 81 voted to cut all ties with the CLC, three opposed the motion and there were six abstentions.

The delegates earlier approved its executive's action last month in suspending the association from the CLC.

The world's largest radio telescope, under construction at Sugar Grove, West Virginia, is expected to be finished by 1962. The dish-shaped "ear" shown in this artist's impression will be 600 feet in diameter—roughly the size of Yankee Stadium. Telescope will receive radio emissions given off by distant stars.

Winter Work Drive Near

Pamphlets urging householders to plan now to carry out repairs, and renovations during the winter months will be delivered next week to some 25,000 homes in Greater Victoria.

The move marks the opening of this year's winter employment campaign sponsored by the federal department of labor and the National Employment Service. The pamphlets outlining its aims will be delivered to homes with the morning milk.

JOBLESS JUMP

Unemployment in Greater Victoria increased during the past month by 390 to a total of 3,770. But officials said the total was still 228 below figures for the same period last year.

NES officials said the increase among jobless men is growing steadily in almost all classifications. A notable exception is the logging and lumbering industry where employment is steady.

Metal trades are affected by shipyard layoffs, with the prospect of more in the near future, and building trades are hard hit by the seasonal slowdown in construction.

The increase in women registered for employment mostly is due to applicants seeking Christmas jobs, officials said.

Sancha Hall Audience Lauds Orchestra, Pianist

By BERT BINNY

The Victoria Symphony Orchestra paid its second visit to Sancha Hall at Sidney last night.

This time they took along a guest artist, lively, vigorous yet completely artistic pianist Miss Sheila Henig.

Miss Henig played Dvorak's Piano Concerto. She played it beautifully in every way but there is some doubt as to whether this particular item provided a vehicle worthy of her great powers. Her capabilities are tremendous; perhaps her most outstanding asset is an amazingly firm touch.

The orchestra played two overtures and Mozart's "Prague" Symphony. Nicolai's "Merry Wives of Windsor" overture, quite a favorite among concert goers, opened the program on a note of sincere happiness and good humor. Dvorak's "Carnival" overture, an item full of sparkle, gaiety and vigor, closed the program.

The "Prague" Symphony, one of the finest of Mozart's compositions, provided excellent balance to the program. There was a good audience

The move marks the opening of this year's winter employment campaign sponsored by the federal department of labor and the National Employment Service. The pamphlets outlining its aims will be delivered to homes with the morning milk.

This time they took along a guest artist, lively, vigorous yet completely artistic pianist Miss Sheila Henig.

Hazardous Accident Described

GANGES—"That's the last time I'm going to travel at night in a small boat," Chalmer N. Peterson said yesterday when he returned to Salt Spring Island from Vancouver.

Mr. Peterson, secretary of the board of trustees of School District 64, George Heinecke, chairman of the board, and cruiser operator Harry Extell set off from Galiano Island Thursday night for Mayne Island to attend a school meeting.

They were aboard the 24-foot cruiser, Hazel Idle Hours, when it smashed into a tow rope behind a tug which was towing a barge of chips.

Immediate reports of the mishap were sketchy, incomplete, and wrong in many details, but the three men explained what happened yesterday.

The men thought the tug was a fish packer as there had been a number sailing through Active Pass, and they could not see the riding lights of the barge behind it.

Following the impact, the crippled boat slid along the tow rope to the barge and Mr. Heinecke jumped aboard and helped the other two men off the cruiser.

While the cruiser drifted off, at first believed sunk, the men unhitched a lantern from the barge and waved it to attract the attention of the tug's crew.

On the tug, the Grant Lindsay, the skipper berated the crew, believing they had not secured the light on the barge, but a mile further on he ordered the spotlight turned onto the barge.

The three men were first taken for stowaways, but explained their position when the tug took them aboard.

They transferred at night to the tug Joan Lindsay which took them to Vancouver, docking at 6 a.m. yesterday.

"They returned to Salt Spring Island yesterday afternoon. Before the men left Galiano, Mrs. Heinecke warned her husband not to "go swimming in the (Active) pass."

The cruiser was found floating near the Mayne Island wharf yesterday and taken in tow by a fishboat to Ganges. Damage was not heavy.

Anti-Jew Acts Rising Again?

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American Jewish Congress Friday reported that "serious and alarming" anti-Semitic incidents have been breaking out in West Germany.

The West German ambassador, Wilhelm Grewe, accepted a copy of the 25,000-word report at a press conference he attended with Rabbi Joachim Prinz, president of the congress. The organization, which claims 300,000 members, seeks to stimulate awareness of Jewish affairs.

Grewe praised the report as a valuable addition to similar studies made of anti-Semitism, but he disagreed with the main theme—that anti-Jewish incidents are on the upsurge in his homeland.

He maintained that publicity about such incidents has increased but that actually the trend in West Germany has been against those who preach or are involved in anti-Semitism.

The report proposed a specific campaign to end what it termed the "sombre anti-Semitic incidents of the last year."

This program for tightening of laws, a broad informational program, punishment of anti-Semites and action by the West German government to weed out ex-Nazis in its ranks.

Good Deed Appreciated Unrewarded

Good intentions were appreciated but unrewarded yesterday when a Sidney youth did his bit to right what he thought to be the result of a Halloween prank.

The young man found a mail box lying behind a house.

Thinking it had been removed on Halloween and put there by pranksters, he took the mail box to Sidney postal authorities.

The RCMP traced the box to a doctor in the area.

A phone call showed that the mail box had been given away, not stolen.

Civilians Inherit Army Job

YELLOW KNIFE, N.W.T. (CP)—The Canadian army, which breathed the life of organized radio communication into the unknown north 36 years ago, formally handed over its work Friday to a civilian arm of the federal government.

The wireless network was started in 1923 by the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals and grew into the Northwest Territories and Yukon Radio System. It now is being transferred to the department of transport.

The symbolic handover was marked by the presentation of a silver morse key by Col. Edmund T. Munro of Calgary, representing the general of ficer commanding Western Command, and Lt. Col. Donald Grant, commanding officer of the radio system, to H. J. Williamson, regional director of DOT air services.

Reeve's Reassurance

Barkley Street 'Can Relax'

Residents of Oak Bay's Barkley Street, alarmed by the spectre of apartment buildings, "can sit back and relax, now."

This reassurance was given them last night by Reeve George Murdoch concerning the proposed new bylaw to create an apartment zone on Barkley, Foul Bay and Crescent.

"The whole matter has been laid on the shelf for a year by the town planning and advisory committee," he said.

Barkley Street residents put up a united front protesting the bylaw at the last council meeting.

Their petition stated that they had been assured when they bought their property that multiple dwelling units larger than duplexes and triplexes would not be built.

They said apartment blocks would lead to traffic congestion and parking problems on narrow, dead-end Barkley.

Piteous Paul Saved

"I'm no good. If people do things like this to me, I must be bad."

From an adult, the words would sound pathetic. From a nine-year-old boy, they were terrifying.

The boy's name was Paul, and Kenneth Shore was telling his story. As treatment director of Sevenoaks Children's Centre, Mr. Shore knows this kind of story all too well.

TRUSTED NO ONE

Paul came to Sevenoaks two years ago, in the middle of the night, after neighbors had complained about the treatment he was receiving from his foster parents.

In his foster home, he was constantly cursed, spat upon, and beaten with the buckle end of a belt. At the age of nine, his attitude was "why should I trust anybody?" He was convinced he was no good and that everyone hated him.

Once he gathered a pile of trash, sat on top of it and set it on fire.

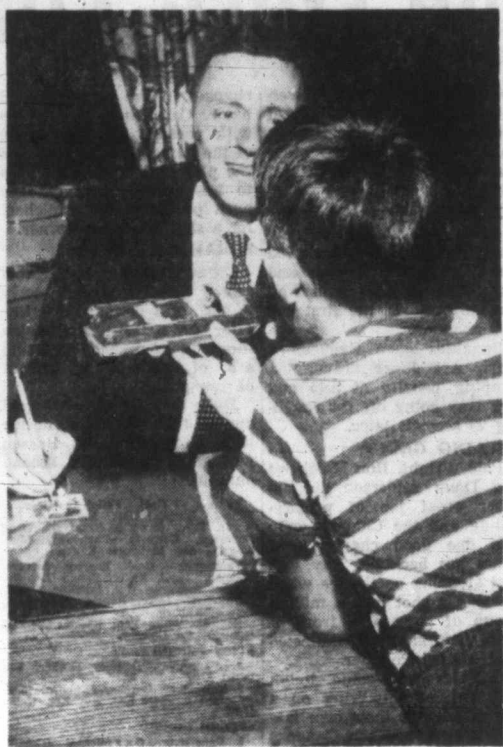

"He may not have killed himself," said Mr. Shore, "but consider how bad things must be when a nine-year-old boy will even try."

COMPLETE CURE

It took him a long time to loosen up to the point where he would talk to me or trust anyone. But gradually he improved. He has been here two years, and now that he knows people like him with no strings attached, he is slowly but surely pulling out of it. He will be completely cured some day.

Sitting in his office, Mr. Shore was surrounded by pictures drawn by the children, and by the toys used in the therapy treatments.

Paul is only one of eight boys between the ages of eight and 12, now housed in the rambling structure on Carey Road. Opened four years ago by a group of Victorians, it is the first such treatment centre in Western Canada, and has become one of the most important, if lesser known, branches of the Community Chest.

AVERAGE CHILDREN

"These are not retarded children," emphasized Mr. Shore. "They are children of average intelligence who through circumstances have developed emotional disturbances. If we get them early enough, they can be helped."

The boys attend regular schools in the city, but stay at Sevenoaks where Mr. Shore, three house parents and a recreation teacher look after them.

"This is their last resort," Mr. Shore said. "They have failed in foster homes through no fault of their own. One boy had been in 42 of them by the time he was 10 years old. He was treated here, has since been discharged, and is doing well in another home today."

In the last 18 months, eight boys have been discharged and are all making successful re-adjustment either with their families or in foster homes.

IMPORTANT STORY

The story of Sevenoaks is a story of a constant battle with an inadequate budget. It is one of the many reasons why the Community Chest, which supports the operation, must reach its objective of $325,000.

But it's also an important story for children like Paul. Potentially the worst case ever at Sevenoaks, he is well along the road to a normal life.

He was helped in time because the Community Chest supports Sevenoaks. If the Chest drive fails, how many Pauls will have to go without?

Against Public Power

Dice Are Loaded Strachan Claims

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan yesterday accused Premier Bennett of "loading the dice against the B.C. Power Commission" by his appointment of power commissioners.

He also charged:

Premier Bennett is operating a political network in dealing with the Wenner-Gren project.

Sacred MLA Stan Carmel of Peace River had inside information when he became director of the Peace, Glen Hotel at Hudson Hope, site of the proposed Peace River power dam.

The background of some members of the B.C. Energy Board would indicate a sympathy for private power.

Premier Bennett, while in Ottawa, spent considerable part of his time arguing on behalf of the B.C. Electric and the Wenner-Gren interests by asking the federal government to abolish the corporation tax on private utilities—"which in B.C. means the B.C. Electric and Wenner-Gren."

Mr. Strachan said the power commission was loaded by the appointment of two cabinet ministers and financial expert F. A. Smith, who, he said, while employed with Canadian Utilities Limited demonstrated his sympathy to Wenner-Gren and private power by assisting his former employer to purchase 250,000 shares of Peace River Development Co. stock.

No Brake, Horn And Speeding

A young driver found a faulty car was costly when he appeared in city court Tuesday to face three charges: speeding, no hand brake, no horn.

Neil Mandryk, 1875 Townley, told an officer who stopped him for exceeding 30 miles an hour that his car had a broken tie rod and "had to be driven at 35" or the car would not go properly.

Magistrate Thomas fined him $25 for speeding and $10 on each of the other charges and suspended his driver's licence for one year.

Lowe Sets New High

Bowling Whip
Tops 'Em All

By BRUCE LOWTHER

It's been one of those can't seem to do anything bared to tell Alvin Lowe.

While five and ten-pins in all of Victoria's alleys had trouble, Alvin not only scored the high ten-pin triple for the week but also rolled the best score any junior has ever had in organized play hereabouts.

The 16-year-old Victoria High School student, an expinboy, hit for 622 at Gibson's to break his own mark of 523, set earlier this season, by a huge margin. City junior play has been affiliated with the American Junior Bowling Congress for two years.

Alvin rolled 189, 244 and 189 and his high single was just one short of the week's best one-game score, a 245 chalked up by H. Chandler in Strathcona's Thursday senior setup during a 378 three-game total.

There was another record, also at Gibson's, as Hazel Piper set a new city ladies' mark for this season in five pins, an 855, in B.C. Electric league play. Her games, 275, 260 and 320.

As in young Lowe's case, Hazel's high single was one short of the week's best. Sena Guest rang up 321 as she scored 757 in Wednesday mixed league at Esquimalt Bowladrome.

Big doings are due soon in local bowling.

First of all, there's the second annual Victoria High

Birds Bid with Two Aces, Length in Desire

By JIM PEACOCK

VANCOUVER (CP)—The University of British Columbia Thunderbirds will take two of the best college football players in Canada and a trunkful of desire with them next week when they leave for Toronto and the national collegiate football championship there Nov. 14.

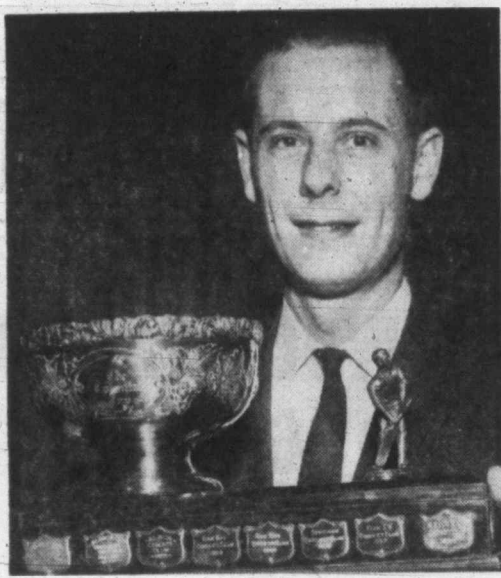

Halfback Jack Henwood and lineman Doug Mitchell rank with the finest college players in the country, says head coach Frank Gnuip, who doesn't have to speak of his team's desire.

The facts speak for themselves on that point.

The Birds must have it to play at all, for theirs is not merely a voluntary participation—they have to pay to play. Football players at UBC have to buy their own boots.

Gnuip, however, hasn't let this enthusiasm and the Birds' most successful season in history push him out on a prediction limb.

Eastern Canada universities, with broader eligibility rules and bigger budgets than those in the Western Canada Intercollegiate Athletic Union, have long since proven their superiority. In six years of pre-

Lions Smash
Turnout Total

B.C. Lions smashed the Canadian football home attendance record with 315,865 fans at their 11 games in Empire Stadium this year, club officials announced last night.

The WIFU third-placers, who made the playoffs for the first time in six years, had 243,604 fans at eight league games, 34,342 at the playoff game against Edmonton and 37,919 at two pre-season exhibitions. Another record, for a Canadian league game, was set when 34,717 saw the third game here.

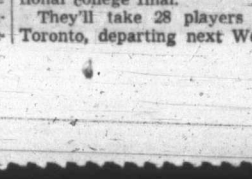

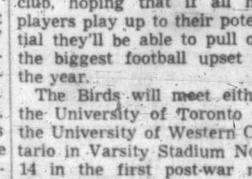

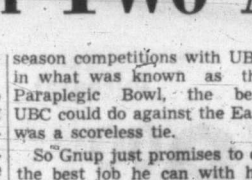

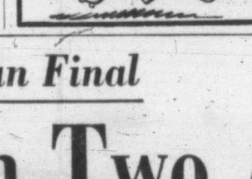

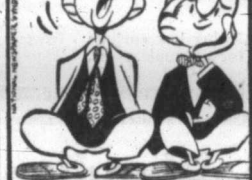

General manager Herb Capozzi said the league total was up 54,500 over 1958 and 35,000 over the previous record, in 1956. Most of the boost was in lower-priced sections.

KEN SNYDER, line coach of the B.C. Lions, has resigned. He was on leave of absence from his job with an Alabama paper company and has given up football to pursue his business career. . . . Canucks Whip Cougars;
Revenge Here Tonight?

Hal Laycoe must be having his moments of indecision about the Western Hockey League schedule.

As manager of the Victoria Cougars he may not mind the nine home games he gets against Vancouver Canucks, sputtered against the powerful Canucks after a couple of missed chances which might have swung things the other way or, at least, kept them close.

Former Cougars did in the Victoria club as Ed Dorohoy and Bruce Carmichael shared Canucks' first four goals and Colin Kilburn drew assists on Dorohoy's goals, the first-pair of the game.

Penalties gave Canucks a start, Art Jones drawing a tripping penalty at 5:45 and Jim Hay going off for roughing 23 seconds later.

MILLING GROUP
Pete Wright, Ron Matthews and Doug Anderson did another great job of penalty-killing and the Canucks only had one good chance until Jones got back on. Hay was just stepping on the ice when Dorohoy's shot into a milling group of players in front of the Victoria goal deflected past Marcel Pelletier.

Cougars had some tough luck in not equalizing on a power play of their own late in the period. Then Canucks struck again as Kilburn pulled the defence over and sent Dorohoy in for a shot which completely fooled Pelletier, who appeared to be expecting a return pass to Kilburn.

Canucks so far this season have looked like the club to beat in the WHL. And they never looked more so than they did last night when they handed the Cougars a 6-0 trimming at Vancouver Forum.

It was the fourth meeting of the season for the cross-strait rivals, the third time the Canucks have won. Last night they doubled their goal production of the first three games and the shutout meant the Cougars have beaten Hank Bassen only four times in four games.

But it could be different tonight when the Cougars get the advantage of playing on home ice in a return engagement.

BIG ADVANTAGE
Home ice has been the big thing for both clubs. Canucks have won all six games they have played at Vancouver, the Cougars are unbeaten in seven games at Memorial Arena since losing their home opener 2-1 to Canucks. Included in the home win streak is a 2-1 verdict over the Canucks.

Last night, with many of the crowd of 3,800 fans in the Forum obviously from New Westminster as they gave the Cougars a fair amount of vocal support, the Canucks were much the better club although it was not until the third period that they pulled away.

Victoria's defence was to blame for at least two of the goals and the Cougar offence scored three unanswered goals in the opening period and added two more in the second after rookie Norm Waslawski had scored Winnipeg's only goal, his ninth of the season.

Two of Seattle's goals were scored on power-plays.

Meanwhile, Calgary Stampers climbed to within one point of second-place Seattle and Victoria by edging the Flyers 3-2 at Edmonton.

Forward Gordon Veprava, obtained in the off-season from Cleveland of the American League, led the Stampers with two goals, his fifth and sixth of the season.

Veprava's second, late in the game, proved to be the winner. He skated the Edmonton defence, drew Flyer goalie Dennis Riggan to one side and hit the other corner.

Calgary's other goals, with Edmonton players in the penalty box, were by Veprava and defenceman Doug Barkley. Stu McNeill and defenceman Bud MacPherson both scored their first goals of the season for Flyers.

Noisy Panic Follows Latest Soccer Defeat

Ian Glenday, former member of the Daily Colonist sports staff, is on an extended visit to England. This is another of his regular articles on British sports.

By IAN GLENDAY

The inquest into the death of English football has been renewed with vigor and determination since Sweden became only the second continental team in history to chalk up a victory at Wembley Stadium. Ireland's well-deserved win over the World Cup finalists four days after the Wembley debacle did not help the defenders of England's youthful team in argumentative circles but only served as a morale booster for the critics who have been unmerciful in condemnation.

Slow, Thoughtful Planning Necessary

Clear thinking must replace the sense of panic that has gripped soccer officials and fans following the World Cup and off-season tour failures, and now the Sweden setback. Planning for the next World Cup tournament in 1962 must be slow and thoughtful with all possibilities exhausted before a final decision is made. More emphasis must be placed on international football with a greater number of matches against continental sides, longer practice sessions for the selected players and closer co-operation between the Football League and the Football Association.

Last Season's Surprises Out Early

Worcester, who accounted for Millwall and Liverpool, and London amateurs Tooting and Mitcham, who were finally ousted by Cup champion Nottingham Forest in a replay, won't be around for this season's Football Association Cup competition.

RUSS JACKSON

Riders Look to Canadian Ace To Continue Hex on Montreal

OTTAWA (CP)—Can quarterback Russ Jackson keep up his winning ways against Montreal Alouettes?

The question popped up Friday as Ottawa Rough Riders held a light drill in final preparation for today's Big Four semi-final playoff against Montreal.

Jackson hasn't been beaten in the five games he has started at quarterback against the underdog Alouettes.

He was in there last season when Riders finally broke a jinx of several seasons and defeated Alouettes in their own park, McGill Stadium.

In the semi-final last year, Jackson, then a rookie, just starting to make his mark, gave a shining performance to lead his team into the finals against Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

This season, Riders lost their first two games against Montreal right in the midst of a series of five straight losses. Frank Tripucka was the starting quarterback then. After Jackson took over, Ottawa walloped Alouettes three times in succession.

The question then is: Can Channels 2 and 6 will telecast the Big Four sudden-death semi-final today beginning at 10 a.m.

he do it again? Does he hold some kind of a charmed life against Alouettes?

Coach Frank Clair said "no" to the jinx question and explained his team's victories over Alouettes by "good team play."

"They're rating us awfully high," Clair said, referring to the point spread of as much as 9 1/2 Ottawa bettors are giving Montreal supporters. "Alouettes rate higher than that and being cast in the role of underdog may help them."

"They haven't much to lose, but if we drop this one after winning eight of nine games the letdown will be much greater."

"Montreal is much healthier than they've been all season. They're not hurting physically and while they may be thin in reserve they've got some good boys who can play 50 or 60 minutes in cold weather."

And it's likely to be cold. The weather forecast is for strong, bitterly-cold winds and there is a chance that there may be snow.

Clair said he would make two lineup changes. Defensive end Lou Bruce, who rested an injured knee last week, and tackle John Bove will be dressed instead of Jim Hughes and rookie Moe Racine.

Canada Winds Up 1-3 In Team Golf Match

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (Reuters)—South Africa kept up its all-conquering run in the Commonwealth amateur golf tournament Friday by defeating New Zealand 5 1/2 to 3 1/2.

The only unbeaten team in the five-country contest, South Africa is favored to clinch the title today when it meets Australia, the defending champion, in its fourth and final match.

In second place is Britain, which gained its second success by beating Canada, 5-4. It was Canada's last match of the tournament, in which all five teams play each other. The Canadians finished with one win and three losses.

Cadet Teams Clash Today

Sports teams from the United States Air Force Academy will compete today with Royal Roads Canadian Services College in a soccer game and a 4.2-mile cross-country race.

The 48-member American group, including officers and cadets, arrived here yesterday from Colorado Springs, Colorado. They will return to the U.S. on Sunday morning.

Tonight local and visiting cadets will attend a formal dance at Royal Roads.

Roses Shouldn't Rock 'n' Roll

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

For my money, November is just about the best month of the year for the planting of roses and many other shrubs and trees. The soil is usually a little on the dry side as compared with spring, which makes planting a much more comfortable job than contending with a sea of goosy mud in the early spring, and there is a fair amount of warmth in the ground which will persist almost until Christmas, and which will encourage early establishment of the roots.

One very common fault in the planting of roses is setting them in too deeply, and I have run across many cases of flowerless bushes directly traceable to this cause. I like to plant my rose bushes about an inch deeper than they were in the nursery, and while it is a universal custom for nurserymen to wash the roots of their roses before putting them on sale, a careful inspection will almost always disclose the old soil level mark.

Set the bush in its planting pit, lay an old bit of lumber or the rake handle across the top of the hole, and measure down to the soil mark. If you have any silver coins in your gardening pants pocket, the diameter of a quarter will give you your one-inch measurement.

Better make sure your rose bush won't sink deeper as the soil settles. To prevent this, I build up a shallow mound of soil in the bottom of the planting hole and beat it hard with the back of the spade. The bush sits up on this mound—at the correct depth—with its roots sloping gently downward toward the edge of the hole.

Besides checking any tendency to sink, this mound of beaten earth serves another purpose—it channels water outward toward the root tips, where it can be used, rather than lying around the main stem and its vulnerable graft union.

After planting, I always make a practice of pruning my bushes lightly to discourage rock 'n' roll. The main pruning will come in early spring, of course, but enough is taken off at planting time to reduce wind resistance, and it isn't a bad idea to steady the bush still more with a couple of light stakes pushed in alongside.

A newly-planted bush is always a bit on the topheavy side, and rocking in the wind tends to loosen the roots just at the time when they should be completely immobilized—while they are "marrying" the soil.

In tidying up the beds of perennial flowers for the winter, I never cut the dead topgrowth all the way back to soil level. This may make a tidier bed, but if you leave stubs about 8 inches tall sticking up, these will give considerable protection to the crowns.

Many of our perennial subjects, too, make some of their best spring growth not directly from the roots or crown, but from the base of the old stems, sometimes an inch or more above soil level. These potential shoots are lost when the tops are cut back too hard.

I make one exception to this rule—the peonies. The old topgrowth of the peony clumps are cut off, not merely to soil level, but about an inch below ground. This must be done cautiously, for the crown buds of next year's growth are only two inches down.

This "clean sweep" tidying of the peony clumps is because of the prevalence of botrytis, a fungus infection which causes the flower buds to dry up and fall off. The winter resting place for the disease spores is at the base of the old topgrowth, hence the need for digging down and getting ALL the dead tops. These, of course, should go to the garden bonfire rather than to the compost heap.

Dauntless Don Quixote

By John Crosby

"I, Don Quixote," which DuPont is doing Monday, is listed as an original and how it came into being is a story in itself. The author, Dale Wasserman, was in Spain working on a movie when he began getting offers to do an adaptation of the Cervantes masterpiece, which he had never read.

So he read it—or most of it. "I feel strongly that some things should never be adapted for dramatic purposes. Don Quixote was one of those things."

"But I got interested in Cervantes. He was poverty-stricken, a cripple, and a slave for six years in Africa, and he was once in love with a woman who ran away from him and left him with an illegitimate daughter who was more evil than the mother. And through it all he retained his serenity of spirit, his remarkable sense of humor, and his lofty ideals. I conceive him as a man who was Don Quixote. The play says in effect that one should live for illusion deliberately because life is an illusion regardless."

Wasserman took a house on the top of a mountain in Switzerland, lived alone for eight weeks and came out with a three-hour script. "It is an idea that is higher and wider than most things done on television. It makes no concessions to the audience insofar as ideas or intellect are concerned. I don't assume the TV audience is composed of 12 or 14-year-old age levels," he says.

Wasserman once wrote one of the most controversial scripts ever done for television. It was called "Fog" and it was first bought by "Studio One." It took five days, said Wasserman, for them to wake up to the real implications of "Fog," which were that man's greatest scientific brains were being directed toward self-destruction. "Studio One" abandoned the script to "Playhouse 90." Five days later, "Playhouse 90" woke up to its real meaning—and sent it to "Climax."

"Climax" was committed to doing it before they realized the play's message—and then the battle began. "After a short time, I walked out on it. It went on the air with a statement precisely opposite to what I wrote. It ended with science triumphant. I was told I would never work on television again."

"Exactly the opposite happened. I was approached by many people to do something 'controversial.' Controversial to these people meant that intolerance is bad manners; lynching is naughty. So I have been doing movies mostly. There is a lot more freedom in movies these days."

Ingo Has Show-Biz Know-How

By Sheila Graham

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Fight champ Ingemar Johansson made three movies in Sweden before his fourth, "All the Young Men," with Alan Ladd in Hollywood. Which accounts for his show-biz know-how. "You train for a big part like you train for a fight," said Ingo, on the set.

Johansson likes acting, and coming up next is the role of Anderson in Ernest Hemingway's story, "The Killers"—the movie version produced by the late Mark Hellinger, made a star of Burt Lancaster.

Jack Benny received an invitation to a reception for Russian composer Shostakovich. He telephoned to accept. "Who's calling?" he was asked. "Jack Benny," said the star comedian. "Will you please spell it?" came back the voice at the other end of the line. Jack has been going around with a dazed look ever since.

Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz are filming only two shows this year, as against a dozen last season—the Ann Sothern Show, of which they own 50 per cent, and Robert Stack's "Untouchables" series. And their own Westinghouse series, which has been chopped by 50 per cent. But even though Lucille and Desi are not getting on well, and they'll be spending much time apart, I doubt that they will ever divorce. For many reasons, some financial.

Pretty Pamela Searle, the "Miss England" who refused to go home, is doing well from her vantage spot at the Hollywood Studio Club where Kim Novak, Marilyn Monroe, Donna Reed and dozens of other lesser Hollywood lights started. "I have a mink stole. I just bought a small sports car, and I have a bank account, but no boy friends—no time for them," says Pamela, who has appeared in Las Vegas with Frankie Vaughan, and in several television segments.

Army Dictator Prepares To Give Up Burma Rule

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Gen. Ne Win and his army, once denounced as dictators by a former prime minister, are preparing to step out of office and hand Burma back to the politicians.

The voluntary stepping down of a military leader is revolutionary in Asia. But it ties in with the 48-year-old general's drive for democracy in Burma.

Some army supporters and independent newspapers, recalling the chaos of the 11 years after Burma received independence from Britain, say the last year under Ne Win has been the most democratic period in Burmese history.

General elections, supervised by the army to block the corruption of previous Burmese elections, are scheduled for late January or early February.

Using the Stayman Convention, North tried for a 4-4 fit in hearts. After South had denied four cards in either major, North jumped to game at notrump.

East played the spade king to force South's ace on the first trick. The contract appeared to hinge upon either a successful club finesse or finding the diamond ace on-side. But declarer went one step further. He could easily afford to lose to the club king in the East hand, because the diamond switch would then be harmless. If West held the protected club king, and East the diamond ace, he was in trouble. To give himself every chance, South led the heart jack to dummy's queen, and called for the club jack. But when East followed low, he played the ace and dropped West's king!

Lucky, did you say? Not at all. Declarer simply gave himself an additional chance and was duly rewarded.

Quiz Investigator:

New Laws Needed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Representative Oren Harris, Dem-Ark., finishing a Congressional investigation of TV quiz show rigging, said Friday Congress should pass new laws to assure program honesty and take a hard look at other channels of television activity.

"Millions of Americans have been tricked, deceived and duped by what was nothing more than a sordid commercial scheme," Harris said in closing his subcommittee's hearings on the quizzes.

He has heard enough about this type of rigging, Harris said, but recently developed leads indicate other practices require investigation.

"And we intend to give them such scrutiny," Harris said.

The subcommittee recessed until next month after hearing Frank Stanton, president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, say there is always the danger of connivance in high-stake quiz shows.

Ike at Links, Not Golfing -- Alanbrooke

LONDON (AP)—Viscount Alanbrooke said Friday he had no intention of suggesting in his wartime diaries that President Eisenhower played golf at a vital stage or the 1944 invasion of Europe.

The wartime chief of Britain's general staff said in a telephone interview he merely meant Eisenhower was at his headquarters, situated on a golf links, just before the crucial Battle of the Bulge.

Alanbrooke's controversial phrase came in a section of the diaries.

Stanton said CBS is ready to help formulate new legislation aimed at curbing the repeatedly opposed any action resembling censorship and told the subcommittee:

"We believe that legislation is no cure-all for these ills and that the primary responsibility lies with the broadcasting industry itself."

Harris did not say just what other areas his investigators would explore. While watching the quiz scandals unfold, they have also heard views critical of name-dropping plugs for one business on another sponsor's program, of the reliability and significance of program popularity ratings, of some types of commercials and of sponsors' influence on what television beams into American homes.

And in New York new troubles confronted the once-popular Twenty-One show. Miss Ethel A. Davidson, a lawyer, filed a $1,200,000 suit against NBC.

Miss Davidson said she was fraudulently eliminated Oct. 29, 1956, by Herbert Stempel, first of the big money winners and first to charge publicly that the show was fixed.

ETHEL A. DAVIDSON
... 'should've won'

Miss Davidson argued in her New York state court suit she had sufficient knowledge to win at least $100,000. She left the show with a $100 consolation award.

Finances Mismanaged

Ontario Plans Action In Belleville Scandal

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario department of municipal affairs will take action on a royal commission report which accuses Belleville's city council of mismanaging civic finances, it was announced Friday.

The municipal affairs minister said he will disclose details of the action next Monday or Tuesday. He said the provincial attorney-general's department is also studying the report for possible action.

In his report Judge Arthur Willmott did not make any specific recommendations for legal action.

Illegal spending has been blamed for most of the city deficit, expected to reach more than $600,000 by the end of this year.

A special tax levy of 9.6 mills is proposed for next year to pay about $250,000 of the deficit.

Heavy Load Lightens on 17-Mile Walk

Receiving her mail from Mr. Fisher is Mrs. John Tront, 569 Toronto Street, one of 600 calls on the mailman's route. One advantage of the mailman's lot is the fact that the mail bag gets lighter as the day progresses—something to consider over a 17-mile hike.

Contrary to legend, dogs are not too much of a problem—for this mailman, at least. Maybe the friendly pat and the dog biscuits Mr. Fisher carries with him have something to do with it. At any rate, Danny was happy to see the mailman.

Colonist reporter Jim Taylor set out with Mr. Fisher on his route yesterday morning but pulled out about halfway through, to totter, terribly tired, to the typewriter.

Gas Rights Sale May Bring B.C. Up to $4,000,000

The provincial government is expected to realize between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 by the public auction Dec. 17 of some 41 parcels consisting of 569,686 acres of petroleum and natural gas rights.

Men Escape

Only Budgie Singed

Two men were resting comfortably at Royal Jubilee Hospital late yesterday, after a narrow, early-morning escape from death in a Saanich fire.

Given resuscitator treatment at the scene were William Russell, 490 Broadway, scene of the fire, and George Bennett, Lincoln Hotel, also at the house at the time.

When Fire Chief Joseph Law revisited the house about 11 a.m., he found a budgie bird.

The bird had lost the tips of its wings in the fire, but otherwise seemed all right. It is now in the care of a neighbor.

A neighbor, Mrs. R. Grieve, 1084 Marigold, was awakened during the night by someone shouting. She turned in the alarm.

On the scene promptly, Saanich firemen brought the two men from the house, and were able to restrict flame damage. Department officials later estimated damage at about $1,500.

Polio Victim Improving

LAKE COWICHAN—Robin Erickson, 6, this area's first polio victim this year, is resting comfortably in hospital at Victoria, her mother said last night.

Mrs. Henry Erickson of South Shore Road said the little girl is not in an iron lung and that doctors say she is improving.

Robin was taken directly to Royal Jubilee Hospital a week ago after doctors diagnosed the illness, she said. Neither Robin's sister, Penny, 14, nor her parents have contracted the disease.

Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan said yesterday that "lively interest is expected in the Boundary Lake oilfield offerings and the few parcels in the rich Mulligan Creek area should prove attractive."

He said bidding is expected to be brisk for the drilling reservations which were nominated by the oil and gas companies.

SEARCH INTENSIFIED

The fact that British Columbia now has 177 gas wells and 53 oil wells, in production or capable of production, has intensified the search for oil and gas in this province.

On Aug. 14 oil companies paid a record $4,636,790.82 for 37 parcels and March 26 they paid $2,496,019.43 for 31 parcels.

It all means revenue to enrich the coffers of British Columbia.

Five of the permits to be sold Dec. 17 are in the Peace River district north and west of oil-rich Fort Nelson.

Two of the permits are in the Flathead area in the southeastern corner of B.C. and the success of strikes on the Alberta side of the Rockies in this area is expected to intensify interest in B.C.

NINE RESERVATIONS

There are nine drilling reservations offered and these are scattered in the Peace River area. Of these, three are especially attracting interest—one is at Kotocho Lake close to the large gas well of Gulf States—El Paso, which is rumored to be one of the world's biggest wells, and the other two are north and east of the Pettit River discoveries of Gulf States.

Some 25 petroleum and natural gas leases will be offered. Nine of these are in the Beaton River oil field area where oil has been discovered and is being developed. Ten are in the Boundary Lake oil field area where development and production is under way.

Two are in the Buick Creek area which is predominantly gas and four are in the Stoddart area, north of Fort St. John.

Sealed tenders will be opened at 10 a.m. Dec. 17 at provincial mines department offices in Victoria.

It Was Easy Route

Postman's Fast Clip Leaves Tyro Limp

By JIM TAYLOR

I tried walking a mailman's route yesterday and believe me, this is one male that did not get through.

Postmen, you know, are trying to get more money out of the federal government for wage increases. They feel that being rained on in winter, and boiled in summer while performing an essential service is worth more than $300 a month.

My trip was made to get a good look at a letter carrier in action. Promptly at 8 a.m., I started out for my first shot at a mail route, confidently muttering things like "Neither snow nor rain, nor heat, nor gloom of night..." Of course, the sun was shining brightly, but the thought was there, anyway.

My faithful guide was letter carrier Lloyd Fisher, 3151 Camosun, a tall, softspoken chap with one big fault. He walked with seemingly effortless strides that ate up six feet at a crack. From the start, I was scrambling to keep up, and from the start it was a lost cause.

Postal authorities swear they put me on one of the easiest routes in the city—a James Bay course only 17 miles long without a hill in sight. They were right, there were no hills; just streets and stairs, a ghastly combination that produced one wilted reporter by noon.

The trip couldn't be considered a success in terms of a pleasure outing.

Three Hours' Sorting

Fast stepper Fisher receives the top pay a letter carrier can get, $300 a month for tramping that 17 miles a day totting a 20-pound sack, in addition to about three hours' work sorting his mail before he can deliver it.

This works out to about $65 a week take-home pay. Men just starting in the business get about $2,800 a year, and it takes four years to reach top-traiting scale.

Biggest problem a letter-carrier faces, according to route walkers, is the never-ending flood of advertising circulars which leaves the letter carrier at the mercy of any store that runs a sale.

In addition to the weight added to his load, the circulars mean that he must stop at every house on his route, not just at the ones that receive mail on that particular day. For this "travelling salesman" job the letter carrier receives nothing extra.

Mr. Fisher puts new soles and heels on his work boots every five weeks, doing the work himself.

Unlike most of his co-workers, he has never been bitten by a dog, the traditional enemy of the postman. However he has been off work several times after falls on slippery steps along the route.

As he talked, the agile Mr. Fisher continued to distribute his mail, and when he finally broke for lunch, one reporter broke for home. One more block, and I'd have been a candidate for the dead letter office.

Only 17 Miles

Traffic Timing Has Faults

Victoria's traffic-signal timing is "haywire for weekends and holidays."

Assistant city engineer Norman Worsley made that admission yesterday. But his traffic division, in choosing the signal equipment being used now, is looking ahead to the day when the system can be converted to the type just installed in Ottawa.

BEST TIMINGS

Ottawa's new system allows the traffic engineer, from his office, to select signal timings best suited to traffic flow conditions at various times of day and days of the week as determined by studies.

Victoria's system now is on a fixed basis, set up to correspond with traffic flows on the average working day, and traffic doesn't follow the same patterns on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

Ultimate in signal control, he said, is the type used in Baltimore and several other U.S. cities: "electric eyes" send information on current traffic flows by radio to a central machine, and the machine figures out the correct signal-timings and controls the signals accordingly by radio.

B.C. Hands Area $101,000 Plan Of Improvement

The provincial government yesterday authorized some $101,000 in Capital Improvement District Commission projects to be undertaken in Greater Victoria as winter works projects.

They include $50,000 for paving, widening, rounding of corners and general improvement to Marine Drive from Memorial Crescent to Foul Bay Road.

Some $36,000 for parking bays, resurfacing and improvement of Marine Drive from Douglas Street, westward to Erie Street.

MOUNT TOLMIE WORK

Some $15,000 for further work at Mount Tolmie, including beautification of the hill-top surroundings and improvement to the approach road.

CIDC chairman J. Everett Brown said the work has been specially timed to provide winter jobs and that tenders will likely be called early in January.

He said that this year the commission may call for tenders itself. In previous years it has been the practice for municipalities to do the work for the CIDC.

There is still $50,000 left to be allocated for CIDC projects and Mr. Brown said yesterday that a project had been suggested, but has not yet won government approval.

$600,000 IN GRANTS

Under the CIDC plan for capital city beautification, the provincial government in the past three years has given some $600,000 in grants, which are considered recognition for the taxes the government does not pay for its buildings in Greater Victoria.

Projects completed or under way include the esplanade in Oak Bay, Clover Point beautification, improvement of Marine Drive from Oak Bay Boathouse to Victoria, banking to prevent erosion of waterfront along Beacon Hill Park, Mount Tolmie summit lookout and assistance with development of Kinsmen Gorge Park.

Judge to Address Victoria Burns Club

Judge G. W. McPhee will discuss "Scottish Characteristics" at the Victoria Burns Club meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Holyrood House.

Blood Clinic Nov. 12

The next Red Cross blood donor clinic will be held Nov. 12—as close as possible to Remembrance Day to emphasize the close connection between wartime and present-day techniques.

The methods of obtaining and storing blood used today to save the lives of civilians were developed during the Second World War, a Red Cross spokesman pointed out last night.

NOT SO HIGH

Volume of blood used today is not quite so high as in wartime, but the need, for pre- and post-operational care as well as for emergencies, is almost as great.

"If 10,000 people would donate a pint of blood each, once a year, Victoria would have the amount it needs," a spokesman said.

TWO TO FOUR

"At it is, between 2,000 and 3,000 donors give from two to four pints a year. They're carrying the load for everyone."

The clinic, which needs another 1,500 pints between now and the year's end, will be open from 1.30 to 4.30 and 7 to 9.30 p.m. Nov. 12, at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort.

New 'Board' At City Hall

A semi-automatic telephone switchboard is now being installed at city hall, replacing the aged equipment still in use there.

Installation will cost the city about $3,750, including relocation of the operator's office and some renovation of the entrance hall.

Fire Guts Abandoned Automobile

Mysterious circumstances in which a 1955 model large car was gutted by fire last night on a wooden wharf beside the Plummer Bay sawmill on Esquimalt Harbor, are being investigated by Colwood RCMP.

View Royal firemen said it appeared that the car had crashed into a large bumper log at the end of the wharf. The driver was not there when firemen arrived, but the car was engulfed in flames from an explosion of its gas tank. The wharf was not damaged.

One Reeve Agrees, Two Don't

One reeve agreed and two disagreed yesterday with the city's claim that intermunicipal sharing of school costs should be related to school needs within each municipality.

A report from City Manager C. C. Wyatt, presented to city council Thursday, showed that Victoria city has been paying substantially more per pupil than the other component municipalities of the Greater Victoria school district.

A council delegation will ask the provincial government to remedy this situation through financial aid.

The city's argument, Reeve George Murdoch of Oak Bay said, "is nothing new to us."

Oak Bay, he said, had been battling the present system since 1946, when the Greater Victoria district was formed.

"Each municipality should stand on its own feet, to be fair," he said. He "definitely" agreed that Victoria should pursue the matter—"We would be glad to help them."

But Reeve George Chatterton of Saanich thought Mr.

Wyatt's use of "per-pupil" costs as a basis for sharing was unsound.

"It's been a well-recognized principle for many years that everybody must share education costs because everybody benefits from it," Reeve Chatterton said, and he pointed out that school taxation is at approximately the same rate in all municipal portions of a school district.

But he said the time "is coming when the province will have to absorb more of the school costs."

Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt said his first reaction "is that in a built-up area such as Victoria, the centre of things, residences are replaced by shops and business buildings. The business district pays more for schools, and I can't see anything wrong with that."

But, he said, the city's complaint did emphasize the trouble with the present formula under which the province shares school costs with municipalities.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: I went steady with a boy two years. He was of a different religion and three years older.

On my 17th birthday my father promised me a college education if I would break up with Wally. I agreed.

To be honest, I'm happy I'm not going steady because I had been missing a lot of good times. I used to think I'd die if I didn't see Wally every night. Now I know I can live without him.

The trouble is my mother is so happy I'm not going steady that she's fixing me up with anyone and everyone. She has arranged blind dates with guys she has never even seen. I've drawn some real spooks. I never know what will appear at the door and I'm sick of it.

She says it's good for a girl's personality to go with all sorts of fellows. I am fed up. Please help me.—VICTIM.

Dear Victim: Tell your mother you appreciate what she's trying to do but no future commitments, please.

Nothing is so unattractive (and damaging) as a mother who is pushing her daughter socially. I hope Mom will lay off.

Trouble Is Sister Amy

Dear Ann: Although we had to get married four years ago because I was pregnant, we made a good start and are happy. His parents are wonderful to me and his brother is a peach. The trouble is his sister Amy who is 30 and unmarried.

When I told him we had to marry in a hurry his major concern was "How will I tell Amy?" (He never even mentioned his folks.)

Whenever we plan a party he automatically includes Amy. On Sunday when we go to his folks for dinner he sits with his arm around Amy and doesn't know I'm alive. When I complain he says I'm insecure and don't understand sister-brother devotion because I never had any brothers. Please tell me how to handle this. I feel as if I'm on thin ice.—DISTURBED.

Dear Disturbed: When you can't beat 'em, you join 'em. You'll never break up this combination without doing irreparable damage to yourself. So be sweet to Amy, build her up, include her willingly, and tell your husband he has a great sister.

The friendly approach will build bridges instead of fences. You'll probably wind up genuinely liking Amy when she reacts favorably to your kindness.

I Took Off My Ring

Dear Ann: I feel stupid asking this question because I should probably know the answer, but I don't.

My wife passed away two months ago. She was only 33. I took off my wedding band a few days after the funeral and it is still in my drawer.

A few days ago my wife's sister took me to the side after church and said, "You could have waited at least until Mary's body was cold before you started to shop around for a new wife." I was shocked and asked her what she meant by that. She said I should still be wearing my wedding band, and she was hurt to see that I had taken it off so soon.

Is she right? Please tell me. I am—VERY DISTURBED.

Dear Disturbed: She was wrong and it was cruel of her to attack you in such a manner.

A widower is not married. You were right to put your wedding ring in the drawer.

Job Applicant Hard to Suit

DAWSON CREEK, B.C. (CP)—This northeastern British Columbia city is looking for a city clerk but it's not likely the applicant from Pavilion, B.C., will get the job.

His application asked for $2,000 a month, a car and chauffeur, an out-of-town house—and accommodation for his African stallion.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

'Girls' Blast Edmonton Coach

What Does He Mean 'Dances, Parties' Athletes' Hard-Working Wives Ask

In a recent statement, Western Hockey League's Edmonton Flyers coach, Bud Poile, said that girls hinder the careers of professional athletes, hockey players in particular.

Yesterday, the women behind Victoria's professional hockey team erupted with a blast aimed at bringing Coach Poile to his knees in abject apology.

Coach Poile accused wives and girl friends of being "social butterflies," of keeping players out late at parties, dances and movies, making them shop and baby-sit when they should be concentrating on their sport.

In their defence, Cougar wives said that hockey WAS their life, that watching the hockey games was their night out.

Wife of fiery veteran Cougar goalie, Mrs. Marcel Pelletier said,

"Hockey is our bread and butter. We (the wives) are not going to hinder this in any way. As far as being social butterflies, I'd like to see a few of those dances and parties!"

She added that it was better if wives and families came with them for a season. It has been proven that players are more stable and better players if they have their families along.

WATCH TV
The Pelletiers stay home evenings to watch television or go out to visit friends.

"The players seem to have seen all the new movies while on the road, so we don't go to the movies very often,"

Mrs. Gordie Wilson, wife of another veteran commented that hockey wives don't have time to be social climbers.

"We have just as many problems as anyone else only more so. We have to raise children, find schools for them, look for a home for the hockey season, rent the one we have and so on."

JUST TOO TIRED
"The only time we go out is to attend the weekly games. The players are just too tired. We do more in the summer."

Mrs. Art Jones says her husband played a better game the year after they were married. Art's pastimes include painting, golf and playing the electric organ. He hates shopping and refuses to go only because he can't be bothered shopping around.

"Our social life is hockey," she said.

The general opinion voiced was that the players were just too tired after a game to do anything but get together over coffee and sandwiches and rehash the game with their wives.

OTHER IDEAS
"Single players may have other ideas," they said.

Cougar wives as well as their husbands, work as a team. They help each other pack, move or baby-sit (contrary to coach Poile's opinion.)

While their husbands are on the road, they keep each other company, for example, a forthcoming skating party at the Arena. They like their gypsy existence.

It would appear that far from being a liability, a wife is a professional athlete's best asset.

Winter Look A 'Furry' One

The fall-winter look is a "furry" one.

Fur is everywhere, on collars, cuffs, hats, even coat linings. It doesn't have to be the real thing to be smart.

The new fashion offers tantalizing creative opportunities to the home-sewer with a worn synthetic coat on her hands. Fake fur is also obtainable at local stores.

You can either remodel an old coat or whip up an accessory to your fall wardrobe from these synthetics.

One local store offers a limited selection of fur fabrics including a white nylon piece, 54 inches wide for $8.95, also available in beige, gray and green for $3.95, and a wool leopard piece, 45 inches wide for $9.50 a yard.

Another has imitation black seal, brown ranch mink leopard and a black and white cowhide, 45 inches wide at about $7.95. These fabrics are mainly rayon base and have to be dry-cleaned.

To stitch fake fur, your sewing machine should be set for a loose tension and a fairly long stitch. The use of nylon thread and number 14 needle is suggested. As notches don't show on the pile of fake fur, mark construction points with chalk or tailor's tacks.

Don't throw away that worn-out fur fabric—coat.

A vintage synthetic coat can, with shortened hem and sleeves, produce a practical all-purpose shortie coat. Or recut to fashion a tiny jacket, neck-piece or hat.

Scraps can be used for trimming collars, cuffs and pockets. Fake fur can even be used as a luxurious cloth coat lining.

When cutting fake fur, available by the yard, the back of pattern piece should be laid on the fold and cut in one section. On the front, sewing experts recommend pinning the facing to pattern front at seam line so facing and front will be in one piece for cutting purposes.

Facing portion can then be turned back, resulting in a fold rather than a seam down the front.

When a seamed garment is finished, excess hair can be removed from seams with a comb. Seams should be smoothed with fingers or pressed on a velvet board.

Iron should be warm, not hot, as test tube fur will melt.

Tips for Parents

Muddy Tip to Toe

By EDITH HENRY

The telephone rang. "Mother, I'm just furious, I thought I'd call you. I sent Ricky to school looking so nice and he's come home simply a wreck. That white shirt you gave him simply won't be white any more. He's mud from tip to toe. Whatever can I do with a child like that?"

Poor mother, and poor Ricky! They aren't the only "poor" pair, however. Every family has this same problem. Back of the frustration, of course, lies the shame of what Ricky must have looked like at school.

LOTS OF WATER

In this particular case, when the storm quieted down, it seemed that Ricky had crossed a ditch with plenty of water in it. His quick eye had caught a vision of something new. It wasn't a worm. It wasn't the long root of a plant. It seemed to be a cross between the two. How exciting!

Ricky and his friend Nick investigated. The eel they came home with had taken a good deal of splashing to get!

SIX TO NINE

What is the best way to deal with children like this—children in the six-to-nine year group?

To begin with, they are not in the white collar class, as yet. Plaid shirts haven't become popular only because they were worn by shepherds on the Scottish hills. Why not face the fact that youngsters cannot play, and stay clean, at the same time. Dress them, then, so that the incidental scars of the day's battle are not too evident.

Young Ricky has facts to face too. He will have to learn that even in his young life, people wear certain clothes for certain occasions.

WORD OF PRAISE

Coming straight from school and changing into play clothes may be a burden which needs help. Greet the child cheerfully with a word of praise if his homeward journey has been along the straight and narrow path. Supply his hunger with his favorite fruit or a whole-some sandwich and milk. Have his play clothes handy and pull on the difficult parts for him. Gradually Ricky will form the habit of changing by himself.

Even a small boy can begin the learning of our social customs, Sunday clothes, school clothes, play clothes, that's the way it goes.

Report Due Soon On Price Spread In Food Products

OTTAWA (CP) — Early next month the government expects to make public a report that will hold a vital interest for every Canadian consumer.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Friday that he hopes to be able to release the report of the royal commission on price spreads of food products about Dec. 1.

However, it was learned later that it likely will be closer to the middle of the month before it is published.

The commission is understood to have finished writing the document, after about a year of public hearings across Canada and another year studying the briefs presented and replies to questionnaires sent out to food processors and distributors.

The seven-member royal commission, headed by Dr. Andrew Stewart, then president of the University of Alberta and now chairman of the Board of Broadcast Governors, was established Dec. 10, 1957.

Its terms of reference instructed it make a four-fold investigation of:

1. The extent and causes of the spread between prices received by producers of food products and the prices paid by consumers;

2. Whether such price spreads are "fair and reasonable" or excessive in relation to the services rendered;

3. Appropriate steps to be taken if price spreads are excessive;

4. The adequacy of price information currently available.

Dr. Stewart, who at the early stages of the inquiry was engaged in a royal commission study of broadcasting that led to establishment of the BBG, has been dividing his time between his two jobs.

Thousands of words of evidence including 100 briefs from individuals and organizations, was placed before the commission along with another 100 or so detailed replies to searching questions about the conduct of the processing and distributing business.

Dr. Stewart said Friday that commission's work afforded an opportunity to take a thorough look at the problem of price spreads and that he sincerely hopes it will be of some use.

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

Thousands of young Canadian university students this fall will take a "leave of absence" from church. Without parents to prod them into Sunday wakefulness they will slip by gravity down an easy pagan slope.

Students should, therefore, heed the warning of Thomas Hobbes in Leviathan, "A man that seeketh precise truth had need to remember what every name he uses stands for, and to place it accordingly; or else he will find himself entangled in words, as a bird in lime-twigs; the more he struggles, the more belimed." Even as birds were caught in "a glutinous substance and held fast," so they get caught in words like "broad-minded" and "tolerant" when they really mean empty-minded and indifferent. They would do well to substitute positive words like "high-minded" and "charitable." Otherwise their wings can get badly smeared.

University life is spread with "lime-twigs set to catch their winged soul." Thus lazy neglect of religion can be rationalized with a priggish, diogenian cynicism. Mencken provided lime-twigs for unwary froth as he defined Puritanism—"The haunting fear that someone, somewhere, may be happy." Many a poor fool has been caught in that sticky mess! Or he may find an iconoclastic professor whose chief claim to heroism is throwing a stick at the martyrs. He should remember that no man is a hero to his valet. Most students have only experienced a superficial or cerebral Christianity. In this event, the exposure to life will certainly trap the unwary. He may emerge from College like Darwin who complained that "his higher tastes had become atrophied" and his mind "a kind of machine for grinding general laws out of large collections of fact."

Many a young person has been caught in Lime-Twigs, "I want to see life," "Everybody does it," "I've got a right to be happy."

Square Dances, Swing Shifts

Sunday School Bursts Seams

NANAIMO—Brechin United Church, opened here a year ago, isn't sure what it's going to do with the 572 children enrolled in its Sunday School classes.

Rev. William Van Druen, 41, says while the size of the adult congregation has doubled since the church was opened, the Sunday School enrolment and attendance at its square dance classes has quadrupled. About the only solution, he said in one interview, will be to introduce a shift system which would see some children toddle off to Sunday School early after breakfast, others in the afternoon.

"I would say we have the youngest congregation on Vancouver Island," Mr. Van Druen said. The church is attracting youngsters because it is offering a full slate of extra-curricular activities which are guided by the church's officers, the minister said. Square dancing, for instance, has become so popular that the adult group in charge has had to begin another set of classes.

He said young people are elected to key positions in various church organizations and they change those positions regularly.

Laos
Invaded

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—A UN fact-finding mission to Laos reported Friday that it didn't find proof of Communist aggression against the Southeast Asian kingdom which sits in the shadow of Red China.

The four-nation subcommittee of the UN Security Council said the information it received did not establish whether or not there had been crossings of the border by Communist troops from neighboring Communist North Viet Nam.

But the subcommittee—representing Argentina, Italy, Tunisia and Japan—did say there was evidence Laotian rebels received military supplies from Communist advisers.

MONTREAL (CP)—Four men were killed Friday when a freshly poured concrete roof, laced through with steel reinforcing rods, collapsed while a construction crew worked on it.

All of the workers on the job were not accounted for until nearly 10 hours after the collapse.

Twenty were injured, none critically. Six remained in hospital in good condition and 14 were released after treatment.

Cause of the crash remained a mystery.

Police, firemen and other members of the construction gang used bulldozers, cutting torches and their own hands to probe the rubble. Ambulances stood by in case their efforts turned up any survivors.

But there was little hope that anyone could be alive under the tons of wet concrete that thundered down at the east-end plant of Johnson and Johnson, a surgical supply company. Rescue work grew increasingly difficult as the concrete slowly hardened.

About 50 men were pouring the concrete roof for a one-storey extension to the plant when it suddenly gave way.

Lucien Trepanier, operating a crane hoisting buckets of the wet cement to roof level, said it fell with a roar "just like a thunderclap." The concrete was being poured about 10 inches thick.

"We heard everyone shouting for help. It was a terrible thing,"

Rene Morisset, superintendent with the Donolo Construction Company building the extension, said:

"I don't really know how it came down. Things happened so fast."

Dead are: Andrew Kish, 58, a carpenter foreman for Donolo; Aime Monette, 45, of Montreal's Rosemount district; Jack Mendiguzzi, 23, of suburban St. Michel, and Akular Fillipo, who died later in hospital.

Dam Proposed

Lands and forest minister Ray Williston, speaking at Nelson yesterday, promised the provincial government will finance the construction of the $66,000,000 High Arrow Lakes dam on the Columbia River if three requirements are met—approval of Kootenay residents, development of fully-effective flood control, and equitable power benefits from the United States.

Driver Killed,
Five Injured

MELVILLE, Sask. (CP)—A head-on collision near this railway and farming town Friday night killed driver Adam Crookshanks, 40, and sent five others to hospital.

Esquimalt
Likely To Consent

A December referendum on fluoridation in all four Greater Victoria municipalities—including holdout Esquimalt—now appears possible.

And the pro-fluoridation committee of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce will fire its biggest campaign cannon just before voting day with the mailing out of 50,000 sets of pamphlets, the Colonist also learned last night.

"It may be that since Oak Bay, Saanich and I hear, Victoria, are in favor, then the councillors may change their opinion," said Esquimalt's Reeve A. C. Wurtele last night.

FIRST ON TAP

"I can't think that we would ever be that stubborn," he said. (Apparently a reference to the fact Esquimalt is "first on the tap" in a joint water connection with Victoria and Saanich, which would be out of luck if Esquimalt said "no.")

Chamber committee chairman Ira Hill, asked what he thought of the suggestion from some quarters that a public forum be held on the question, said:

NOT INTERESTED

"You won't get any of our doctors and dentists going for a public forum. They're not interested in arguing about it. We aim to keep the public informed through the newspapers," he said.

50,000 PAMPHLETS

"We'll also be sending pamphlets to every household in Greater Victoria—50,000 of them."

GIFT OF GAB

"Look at what happened when we held a public rally on amalgamation," he said. "All the 'antis' with the gift of gab turned out." (Victoria voted 2 to 1 for, and Saanich voted 2 to 1 against, thus killing the merger.)

So far, only two municipalities—Saanich and Oak Bay—have officially decided to hold referendums.

VOTE IN FAVOR

But a poll of Victoria aldermen earlier this week indicated that city council, at its next meeting, will vote in favor of putting the issue to the voters.

Esquimalt council decided Oct. 26 against a vote, on the grounds there was too little time for council to study the matter and also for the voters to be properly informed.

NOT STUBBORN

"Contrary to what some people think, we're not a bit stubborn out here," Reeve Wurtele said last night.

He had just been asked what was his stand and what he thought council's would be in the light of three out of four municipalities wanting a referendum.

"We give lots of thought and deliberation to these problems," he said.

"Personally I feel, if the majority want a vote on fluoridation this December, I would be one of the last ever to hold them up."

Nikita Cheers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Mayor George Christopher received a note of congratulations upon his re-election yesterday from Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The Soviet leader, who, during his visit here in September, endorsed Christopher for re-election, said in his message of congratulations that he "undoubtedly would have voted for" him.

"I am very glad that my opinion coincided with that of the citizens of San Francisco," Khrushchev said.

Service Arms
Should Unite
Says Pearson

MONTREAL (UPI)—Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson suggested last night that the time might be ripe to merge Canada's three armed services into a single national force.

The old distinctions between army, navy and air force were becoming "increasingly meaningless," he told an Air Force Veterans Association armistice dinner.

Defence needs in the missile age led inevitably to "complete co-ordination of armed services, amounting to single control," he said. No one would be opposed to such a move if it was in the national interest, he added.

The Liberal leader called for a select Parliamentary committee or royal commission to investigate such questions as co-ordination of services, readjustment of defence expenditures. What was needed primarily, he said, was the "most thorough and complete re-examination of our whole defence policy."

Canada, as a middle power, should concentrate on two main defence goals—contributions to a defence coalition and to an international police force, Pearson said. Today's defence needs were too complicated and expensive for a country of this size to try and meet all possible factors, he said.

At the same time, he added, it would be folly for a superpower to concentrate merely on the ultimate weapons of nuclear power. Such a policy could convert a limited conflict into an all-destructive war, he said.

Fog, Ice, Snow

Europe Shivers
As Winter Hits

LONDON (Reuters)—Winter slammed into many parts of Europe Friday, bringing deep snows to the Italian Apennines and fog and ice in several other countries.

Drifts up to nearly three feet blocked about 200 trucks on one of the main highways linking Florence and Bologna. In the Italian Alps, several villages were isolated by floods.

In Britain, frost and fog upset road and rail traffic and delayed air services.

Britain's first super-highway, blanketed in thick fog, recorded its first fatal accident. The London-to-Birmingham highway was opened only five days ago.

Two men were killed when two trucks piled into the back of another truck and a police vehicle towing it.

Finlayson Agrees with Ottawa,
Ship Cost 'Cause for Concern'

VANCOUVER (CP)—The federal government had no choice but to accept the lowest bids tendered for the construction of two ships for the West Indies costing about $5,000,000 each, Deane Finlayson, provincial Progressive Conservative leader, said Friday.

"I think that it is cause for concern here that our yards in British Columbia were approximately $1,000,000 higher than the yards which were awarded the contracts in eastern Canada," he said.

Mr. Finlayson's statement also said that Premier Bennett was "the architect of his own undoing" in failing to get a higher share of tax money under federal-provincial agreements.

"If our case is weak, it is weak because he alone has ruined it by his claim of tremendous prosperity in B.C.," he said.

Middle Age Will Begin at 100

LONDON (Reuters)—Man's life span will have been extended to from 150 to 200 years by the year 2009, a Russian scientist predicted Friday.

Dr. Vladimir Demikhov, quoted by the Soviet news agency Tass, made the prediction in an article in the Moscow Evening News.

He added that 50 years from now Soviet hospital patients will be mostly middle-aged persons having aging hearts, lungs, kidneys and other organs painlessly replaced.

Medicine 50 years hence will concentrate on preventing diseases and postponing old age. The transfer of organs will have become a popular and safe method of treatment, Demikhov added.

Demikhov is noted for his experiments in transplanting the organs of animals. A week ago, he showed a Moscow lecture audience a dog which he said had been living for two weeks with two hearts.

Turning to the human application of these experiments, he said that transplanting—even temporarily—of a new organ might lead to recovery of a diseased or injured one.

The possibility is not excluded that implanting younger organs might rejuvenate the whole organism, he said.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

MARGARET L. MURRAY made a name for herself as the publisher of Canada's liveliest weekly. Her Alaska Highway News was rich with slang, insult and rough, kindly praise of good actions.

Mrs. Murray often used the columns of her paper as a substitute for letter-writing. Instead of replying to a correspondent directly, she would send a letter to the printer.

An unwary friend who wrote to Mrs. Murray ran the risk of having his letter appear in the News.

Some time ago Mrs. Murray handed the Alaska Highway News over to the next generation. But she wasn't able to stay idle for long.

Last month, at the age of 71, Mrs. Murray published the first number of another frontier newspaper, the Fort Nelson News, 250-odd miles along the Alaska Highway northeast of Fort St. John.

She's running her new paper in the same rip-roaring way that made the Alaska Highway News famous from coast to coast.

Here's an editorial from the Fort Nelson News that gives the flavor of Mrs. Murray's prose. I make no comment, one way or the other, on her opinions:

"This is an appropriate line for ex-mayor Don McKay of Calgary, who for 14 years whooped Calgary up from a mediocre cow town to the most publicized and loved city in all Canada.

"Don got ulcers, from drinking civic cocktails with the hot polloi from Timbuctoo or to hell and gone. He got fallen arches from standing in line receiving civic functions.

"He got hangnails from frustration over small-minded officials who took the kudos off Don's suffering and success and then let Don down with a paltry expense account, a niggardly salary and a jealous executive.

"The people of Calgary have a good deal to answer for in the shabby loyalty they did not give Don, when he was under the gun for a few bags of cement.

"Don also got censured for taking a trip some guy paid for, who likely had a 'conshunts' feeling after cleaning up on some deal after a million satisfied customers had come to Calgary to see Don McKay—at Stampede time.

"The people make thugs out of their public men nowadays. They expect public men to do a job and then when it is done in style like Don's, they persecute him for the methods he had to use on their behalf.

"CALGARY WILL NEVER BE THE SAME."

That's Mrs. Murray—a loyal frontier publisher who speaks up for her friends and her beliefs with revival-meeting eloquence.

"If the Public Utilities could only have taken over," she says of Fort Nelson, "what a sweeter winter we could have had, but we'll just have to hold our noses and congratulate ourselves that Tokyo smells a darn sight worse.

"Look at all the conversation pieces we are building up at the rugged northland of Mile 300. All the rest of our lives we can be telling how we roughed it at Fort Nelson the winter of 1959 without plumbing, paving or pouring water.

"...Money... is tight... (but) there will be plenty of folding money earned the next five months and everyone will forget about the uneasy waiting time.

"Let's all shove the corners up. Let's smile for the joy of the living, keep our fingers crossed so that we will treat the workers well who will come to Fort Nelson for the first time. Practise consideration and fair dealing.

"Let us make the most of the opportunities for ourselves, but let the other guy get a break too."

Patricia Blondal Funeral Today

Well-known Canadian novelist, Patricia Blondal, 32, who based her recent novel, "Strangers to Love," in Victoria and Vancouver Island, died of cancer this week in Eyrton.

She is survived here by her father, Nathaniel Jenkins, 814 Old Esquimalt Road, a brother, Walter, at 3229 Carman, and two sisters, Mrs. Esther Galloway 2128 Neal, and Mrs. Nora Mainwaring, 1250 Revercomb. A brother, Maj. David Jenkins, lives in Vancouver.

Her husband, Dr. Harold Blondal, is a medical researcher in Montreal. A son, 4, and a daughter, 7, also survive.

A frequent visitor to Victoria, Mrs. Blondal, who wrote about the mythical town of "Brynton" on the Island, says in the final instalment of her novel which appeared this month in Chateaufort: "And when I die, I shall come to Eyrton."

The funeral will be held today in Montreal.

"Strangers to Love" is under option to a New York publishing house and her most recent work, "A Candle to Light the Sun," is scheduled for publication this coming spring in Toronto.

Mrs. Blondal, born in Souris, Man., was a graduate of the University of Manitoba in 1946. She worked in radio as a broadcaster and writer and in the public relations field in Winnipeg.

Bravery Citation For Navy Trio

Three Victoria-based members of the Royal Canadian Navy have been awarded the Queen's commendation for brave conduct, naval headquarters here announced yesterday.

Honored for their actions in fighting a serious fire in the engine room and bilges of the Norwegian vessel Ferngulf near Vancouver May 1 were:

CMDR. Kenneth E. Lewis, 2162 Lafayette, then squadron technical officer aboard HMCS Assiniboine; PO Richard G. Seager, 1156 Heald, then aboard HMCS Saguenay, and L.S. Clyde Rose, 1749 Coronation.

When fire followed an explosion aboard the Ferngulf, a 20-man volunteer team was formed from two Canadian warships and a U.S. submarine berthed at Centennial Pier in Vancouver to fight the flames.

CMDR. Lewis led the team, and the citation says his bravery and coolness saved lives that would have been lost had the ship blown up.

PO Seager led a group of the team fighting fire in the bilge, where oil from broken lines had flooded to make fire-fighting extremely dangerous.

LS Rose on several occasions volunteered for the risky task of crawling into the bilges to take out and extinguish burning debris.

No date has been set for presentation of the commendations.

Bonner Opposes 'Free Narcotics'

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said yesterday that the government still opposes free narcotics for addicts on a provincial basis, but "nationally, it could be a different matter."

He said in an interview that narcotic suppression is the responsibility of the federal government and the possibility of establishing the British system of free administration of drugs on a national basis might be worth study.

He felt there was no substitute for "effective national action" on the drug problem.

However, free administration

Free Drugs Nationally Worth Study

tion instituted by one province and not by others would only result in an upsurge in the addict population in that province.

Mr. Bonner said there has been more success with women addicts than with men at the Oakalla Prison Farm drug centre which is costing the government $56,000 a year.

But he pointed out that authorities have no control over addicts after discharge. Any follow up work could only be done if the addict volunteered.

"I think," he said, "it would be most useful if some conditional discharge for addicts could be legislated, but that is a federal matter."

He added that no approaches have been made to Ottawa on this possibility since "our thinking is still tentative."

Jacques Caught In Drafts Shares Pin-Up

LONDON (UPI)—Thursday morning Jacques Charrier was the husband of Brigitte Bardot. By nightfall he was Private Second Class Charrier in the French army, caught in the draft.

"What a shock they had in store for him when he was taken to his barracks room at Orange," the Daily Mirror said.

"He took one step inside and recoiled with a gasp! Above nearly every bed was a photograph of the army's favorite pin-up girl, Brigitte Bardot.

Big Labor Hassle Faces the Nation

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's biggest labor hassle has started.

It involves 15 unions bargaining for about 120,000 railway workers across Canada versus six railways, including the CPR and CNR, and a railway express agency.

At stake, the railways say, is more than $65,000,000 a year.

The unions—known generally as the "non-op unions" because they represent most railway workers who do not operate trains—want:

1. A pay increase of 25 cents an hour starting next January.

2. Statutory holidays for some 4,500 track repairmen.

The railways have said the new demands would entail a 30-per-cent freight rate boost to cover their cost, on top of a 15-per-cent rate application still outstanding because of a government-imposed rate freeze.

$300,000 Plan Set For Uplands Park

A master plan to bring Uplands Park up to the standard of Beacon Hill—at a cost of more than $300,000 over 24 years—is expected to be ratified soon by Oak Bay council.

"We've got the plan and it's a fine one," Reeve George Murdoch said last night.

He gave credit for getting the plan down on paper to Municipal Engineer Geoffrey White and landscape architect W. J. Westby.

The 75-acre park area, which stretches back from Cattle Point, will be improved at the rate of $15,000 a year. It is about half the size of Beacon Hill.

Main development will be carried out on the 65 acres of trees, bush and swamp on the land side of Beach Drive.

Included in the parks committee's over-all plans are a 1½-mile circular drive with three entrances, placed so as to discourage motorists from driving through the park just to get from one part of Oak Bay to the other.

There will be two miles of gravelled paths, timber bridges and six ponds, connected by a stream. The pond and stream project will assist in providing drainage for the area.

Annual maintenance cost, once development has begun, is estimated at between $20,000 and $25,000 a year.

Milk Surplus Melts Away

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's surplus of dried skim milk, a whopping 64,200,000 pounds at March 31 in government-held stocks, has melted away under world demand.

Demand is brisk for other commodities, too, including butter and apples.

Sources said the government could have sold every pound of its dried milk surplus in the last month.

Advance Ticket Draw Sought by Fairs Group

British Columbia agricultural exhibitions and fairs want a green light to hold prize-draws on the sale of advance tickets.

Some 45 delegates from all parts of the province, attending the annual meeting of B.C. Fairs Association held yesterday in the Empress Hotel, decided to take their requests to Ottawa.

Present regulations only permit prize-awards if the tickets are bought on the fairgrounds during the run of the fair.

Delegates argued that an advance ticket sale, with prizes as a spur, is the only means by which exhibitions can offset losses incurred when bad weather hits during the run of the fair.

This year's Saanichton fair was cited as an example of financial losses caused by rain.

Agriculture Minister Steacy told delegates at a luncheon meeting that fairs provide a "shop window" for the agricultural economy of the province.

"This is where the producers' efforts are criticized, and criticism, if constructive, is another word for progress," the minister said.

Letters to the Editor

Hard to Replace

Certain of your correspondents have advocated that civil servants should quit if they are not satisfied with the treatment they have received from the government.

It astounds me that Canadians are so ignorant of the varied skills and abilities needed by their employees as these suggestions imply. Included in the approximately 150,000 federal civil servants are meteorologists, biologists, meat inspectors, nurses, engineers, accountants, postmen, stenographers, clerks and many other professions and trades.

At least 90% of these employees are seriously concerned at the government's refusal to implement the recommendations of its own pay research bureau which was established for the explicit purpose of advising the government in the matter of civil service salaries. The employees are also concerned that they have not the protection of the law, as all other Canadian workers have, in ensuring that their employers negotiate with them. The government, while forcing all other employers to negotiate with their employees, has refused to extend this right to civil servants.

Do your correspondents seriously consider that the people of Canada would be benefited by these tens of thousands of employees leaving their positions? Do they believe that these countless types and classifications of positions can be filled so easily? If they do, I respectfully suggest that they inform themselves by contacting the civil service commission.

In spite of the treatment meted out to them by the government, the employees will remain at their posts, will deliver the mail, will prepare pension cheques, in the hope that the public, their real employers, being informed of the actual situation, will not wish to see their servants victimized.

Milk Measurement

The fluid ounce is defined in the Dominion Weights and Measures Act as the volume occupied by one ounce avoirdupois of water under specific conditions of temperature and barometric pressure, and is a legal unit of measure.

If regulations can be made by the provincial authorities re the measure of milk, why can such products as soup, tomato juice, etc., be put up in any quantity convenient to the manufacturer whether 12, 28 or any number of fluid ounces as stated on the container.

'Fantastic Wages'

What is this virus that for these last 10 or 12 years has so plagued our industrial life and appears to be so well established now, that all types of citizens on a payroll automatically seem to expect another raise? The slogan nowadays is "no contract, no work," the contract good for one year.

Without any doubt these fantastically high wages are gradually robbing us of our export markets, and internally, in Canada, some people are compelled to paint their own houses or otherwise let property deteriorate, or plumbing, or chimney sweeping or what have you.

The time is long past due that we should really settle down to work, putting Canada's interests first.

Nine Councillors, Trustees Plan To Run Again

DUNCAN—Nine members of the city and municipal councils, and the Cowichan school board—who will end their terms next month—have said they will run again.

But it appears there will be no competition for the leaders—Mayor Jack Dobson, Coun. Donald Morton who is seeking the North Cowichan reeve-ship, and John Homer who is chairman of the Cowichan school board.

FEEL GRATIFIED

"I wonder sometimes if we should feel gratified there is no opposition. A fight is more interesting," said Mayor Dobson yesterday. He has been on the council 12 years and is seeking a third term as mayor. City councillors John Kerrone and Steve Saunders will run again.

TO RUN AGAIN

On the school board, besides Mr. Homer, the terms of trustees George Cooper, J. S. Fraser and Mrs. E. F. Howden are expiring. They, too, will run again.

In North Cowichan, Reeve C. A. P. Munson has said he will not seek re-election and Coun. Donald Morton is so far unopposed in seeking it.

The third North Cowichan council position coming vacant is held by Coun. Stan Dyke who will run again. Three

School Bylaw Succeeds Second Time Around

DUNCAN—The $1,155,292 school building bylaw that was passed a second time last month by voters in School District 55 (Cowichan) has been accepted by the department of education.

It was first approved by the voters last June but later re-said not enough technical information was provided and that the interest rate should have been 6 instead of 5 per cent.

The board made the changes and the bylaw received a bigger majority at the polls last month.

It was rejected by the department. They

Future of Fairbridge Uncertain

Residents living in some of 28 buildings owned by the Fairbridge Society of Great Britain, just south of Duncan, are wondering what plans the society has for them. This aerial picture, looking south, shows the school, bottom left, the church and other buildings that at one time were used to house more than 300 children. —(Colonist photo by Charles Thompson.)

Fairbridge Future Shaky

DUNCAN—Residents are wondering what is to become of the ill-fated Fairbridge property and buildings that were built 20 years ago—but later abandoned—as an institution for underprivileged English teenagers.

The federal immigration department has announced that the Fairbridge Society of Great Britain has combined with Canadian Pacific Railways to bring British boys to Canada.

The society closed its 28 buildings here to a similar scheme just after the Second World War because of the devaluation of the pound sterling. At one time nearly 300 English boys and girls were living at Fairbridge.

The society still owns the buildings here on 1,000 acres of land—valued at more than $75,000—which are being leased. The CPR has the rental of the buildings, which are used sometimes for housing immigrants. Most of the houses are filled now with Canadians.

"We haven't been told anything about their plans," said Jock McBryde, a partner in McBryde and Stevenson, dairy farmers, who lease the 1,000-acre farm property.

They have had the lease for nine years, and have another three years to go before their contract expires.

"We saw CPR officials a couple of days ago and they didn't say anything about it. We'd sure like to know what's going on," he said.

Ted Cornwall, CPR superintendent of colonization in Vancouver, said yesterday the immigration department had announced the scheme from Ottawa. His office has nothing to release, he said.

NEW SCHEME

Mr. Cornwall did say that it will be up to each provincial government to approve the new scheme before it can be started.

The society will place specially-picked 15-year-old boys on farms in the United Kingdom to see if they would be suitable as farmers. Those who show promise will be brought to Canada and placed in selected farms when they are 16 years old.

After a short period of supervision under the CPR they will be left to fend for themselves. The society will assist some parents to pay for their children to come here.

Recreation and Conservation Minister Earle C. Westwood was taken on a tour of the 167-acre property Wednesday by chamber of officials. The area includes two miles of waterfront, half a mile of sandy beach, a sheltered bay and some 500,000 feet of timber.

PREPARING PLANS

Architects will have the plans ready and tenders will be called, within eight months. Health minister Eric Martin has requested that the local authorities prepare the old General Hospital for immediate conversion to a chronic care establishment as soon as the new regional hospital is opened.

A Nanaimo man was seriously burned Friday when a kettle containing naphtha gas exploded in his hands.

Earl Johnson mistook the white gasoline for water. When he discovered his error, he ran outside with the heated kettle before it exploded in his hands.

Johnson, who was aboard a friend's boat, plunged into Nanaimo harbor to douse his burning clothing. He was pulled out by other fishermen and taken to hospital for treatment.

He claimed wilful disregard of the law was shown when Secord had balanced the commercial value of a share of the 40,000-pound catch against a possible fine.

He said none of the fish had been illegally-caught and that the net had been closed while in the restricted area.

William Beckingham, appearing for the Crown, contended that the $1,000 maximum fine was in order because Secord had refused an order to spill the fish from the boat's net after the craft had drifted above the boundary.

Magistrate W. E. MacLeod imposed the sentence after hearing defence counsel Robert Ohs ask for leniency on the grounds that Secord, charged with fishing above the boundaries at Nitinat Lake Oct. 9, had been unable to prevent his craft from drifting over the line, during bad weather.

Last Night Boat Trip Says Rescued Man

GANGES—"That's the last time I'm going to travel at night in a small boat," Chalmers N. Peterson said yesterday when he returned to Salt Spring Island from Vancouver.

Mr. Peterson, secretary of the board of trustees of School District 64, George Heinecke, chairman of the board, and cruiser operator Harry Extell set off from Galiano Island Thursday night for Mayne Island to attend a school meeting.

They were aboard the 24-foot cruiser, Hazel Idle Hours, when it smashed into a tow rope behind a tug which was towing a barge of chips.

Immediate reports of the mishap were sketchy, incomplete, and wrong in many details, but the three men explained what happened yesterday.

The men thought the tug was a fish packer as there had been a number sailing through Active Pass, and they could not see the riding lights of the barge behind it.

Following the impact, the crippled boat slid along the tow rope to the barge and Mr. Heinecke jumped aboard and helped the other two men off the cruiser.

While the cruiser drifted off, at first believed sunk, the men unhitched a lantern from the barge and, waved it to attract the attention of the tug's crew.

On the tug, the Grant Lindsay, the skipper berated the crew, believing they had not secured the light on the barge, but a mile further on he ordered the spotlight turned onto the barge.

The three men were first taken for stowaways, but explained their position when the tug took them aboard.

They transferred at night to the tug Joan Lindsay which took them to Vancouver, docking at 6 a.m. yesterday.

They returned to Salt Spring Island yesterday afternoon.

Hospital Start In Nanaimo Next October

NANAIMO—Construction of a new $4,650,000 regional hospital at Nanaimo will start Oct. 1, 1960.

Lowe Sets New High

Bowling Whiz
Tops 'Em All

By BRUCE LOWTHER

It's been one of those weeks when most bowlers can't seem to do anything but to tell Alvin Lowe.

While five and ten-pins in all of Victoria's alleys had trouble, Alvin not only scored the high ten-pin triple for the week but also rolled the best score any junior has ever had in organized play hereabouts.

The 16-year-old Victoria High School student, an expinboy, hit for 622 at Gibson's to break his own mark of 523, set earlier this season, by a huge margin. City junior play has been affiliated with the American Junior Bowling Congress for two years.

Alvin rolled 189, 244 and 189 and his high single was just one short of the week's best, one-game score, a 245 chalked up by H. Chandler in Strathcona's Thursday senior setup during a 578 three-game total.

There was another record, also at Gibson's, as Hazel Piper set a new city ladies' mark for this season in five pins, an 855, in B.C. Electric league play. Her games, 275, 260 and 320.

As in young Lowe's case, Hazel's high single was one short of the week's best, Sena Guest rang up 321 as she scored 757 in Wednesday mixed league at Esquimalt Bowladrome.

Big doings are due soon in local bowling.

Lions Smash
Turnout Total

B.C. Lions smashed the Canadian football home attendance record with 315,865 fans at their 11 games in Empire Stadium this year, club officials announced last night.

The WIFU third-placers, who made the playoffs for the first time in six years, had 243,604 fans at eight league games, 34,342 at the playoff game against Edmonton and 37,919 at two pre-season exhibitions. Another record, for a Canadian league game, was set when 34,717 saw the third game here.

General manager Herb Capozzi said the league total was up 54,500 over 1958 and 35,000 over the previous record, in 1956. Most of the boost was in lower-priced sections.

Canucks Whip Cougars;
Revenge Here Tonight?

Hal Laycoe must be having his moments of indecision about the Western Hockey League schedule.

As manager of the Victoria Cougars he may not mind the nine home games he gets against Vancouver Canucks.

MILLING GROUP
Pete Wright, Ron Matthews and Doug Anderson did an other great job of penalty-killing and the Canucks only had one good chance until Jones got back on. Hay was just stepping on the ice when Dorohoy's shot into a milling group of players in front of the Victoria goal deflected past Marcel Pelletier.

Cougars had some tough luck in not equalizing on a power play of their own late in the period. Then Canucks struck again as Kilburn pulled the defence over and sent Dorohoy in for a shot which completely fooled Pelletier, who appeared to be expecting a return pass to Kilburn.

It was the fourth meeting of the season for the cross-strait rivals, the third time the Canucks have won. Last night they doubled their goal production of the first three games and the shutout meant the Cougars have beaten Hank Bassen only four times in four games.

But it could be different tonight, when the Cougars get the advantage of playing on home ice in a return engagement.

BIG ADVANTAGE

Home ice has been the big thing for both clubs. Canucks have won all six games they have played at Vancouver, the Cougars are unbeaten in seven games at Memorial Arena since losing their home opener 2-1 to Canucks. Included in the home win streak is a 2-1 verdict over the Canucks.

Last night, with many of the crowd of 3,800 fans in the Forum overlooking from New Westminster as they gave the Cougars a fair shake, amount of voel support, the Canucks were much the better club although it was not until the third period that they pulled away.

Victoria's defence was to blame for at least two of the goals and the Cougar offence chances in the second period before Carmichael made it 3-0 with perhaps the finest goal of the game. Ray Cyr started the play with a cross-ice pass to Les Colwill, who fed the puck perfectly to Carmichael for a shot into a top corner.

SCRAMBLE SHOTS

Carmichael and Bob Kabel scored from scrambles early in the third period, the latter after Dave Duke had stolen the puck from Pelletier, doing a bit of stickhandling in front of his goal.

Duke then got the sixth goal and all that was left to decide was whether or not Bassen was going to get his second shutout.

Totem Again

Seattle Totems and Spokane Comets both added strength yesterday in a three-club arrangement involving two Western Hockey League forwards. New York Rangers sent winger Jim Powers, who had been playing with Vancouver Canucks, to Spokane. Comets then traded Powers to Seattle for veteran Eddie Stankiewicz. Powers will almost certainly play on a line with Guyle Fielder, who helped him to a 26-goal showing last season.

Boileau, Filion Still Hot
As Totems Win Easily

Veteran Rudy Filion and sophomore Marc Boileau continued a torrid scoring pace Friday night at Seattle in leading the Totems to a 6-1 win over Winnipeg Warriors and a share of second place in the Western Hockey League.

Boileau held his one-point lead over Filion in WHL individual scoring with a goal and two assists, giving him 21 points in 12 games. Filion remained one point off Boileau's mark with a pair of goals and an assist.

Seattle scored three unanswered goals in the opening period and added two more in the second after rookie Norm Waslawski had scored Winnipeg's only goal, his ninth of the season.

Two of Seattle's goals were scored on power plays. Meanwhile, Calgary Stampers climbed to within one point of second-place Seattle and Victoria by edging the Flyers 3-2 at Edmonton.

Forward Gordon Vejpava, obtained in the off-season from Cleveland of the American League, led the Stampers with two goals, his fifth and sixth of the season.

Vejpava's second, late in the game, proved to be the winner. He skirted the Edmonton defence, drew Flyer goalie Dennis Rignin to one side and hit the other corner.

Calgary's other goals, with Edmonton players in the penalty box, were by Vejpava and defenceman Doug Barkley. Stu McNeill and defenceman Bud MacPherson both scored their first goals of the season for Flyers.

Veteran Victoria mailman Lloyd Fisher had a heavy load of mail yesterday when he started his regular James Bay delivery route, which takes him over a 17-mile walk each day.—(Colonist photos.)

Colonist reporter Jim Taylor set out with Mr. Fisher on his route yesterday morning but pulled out about halfway through, to totter, terribly tired, to the typewriter.

Gas Rights Sale May Bring B.C. Up to $4,000,000

The provincial government is expected to realize between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 by the public auction Dec. 17 of some 41 parcels consisting of 569,686 acres of petroleum and natural gas rights.

Men Escape

Only Budgie Singed

Two men were resting comfortably at Royal Jubilee Hospital late yesterday, after a narrow, early-morning escape from death in a Saanich fire. Given resuscitator treatment at the scene were William Russell, 490 Broadway, scene of the fire, and George Bennett, Lincoln Hotel, also at the house at the time.

BUDGIE FOUND

When Fire Chief Joseph Law revisited the house about 11 a.m., he found a budgie bird. The bird had lost the tips of its wings in the fire, but otherwise seemed all right. It is now in the care of a neighbor.

SOMEONE SHOUTING

A neighbor, Mrs. R. Grieve, 1084 Marigold, was awakened during the night by someone shouting. She turned in the alarm.

On the scene promptly, Saanich firemen brought the two men from the house, and were able to restrict flame damage. Department officials later estimated damage at about $1,500.

Jake Epp Acquitted

COURTENAY — Jake Epp, financial secretary of Local 1383 of the International Woodworkers of America, was acquitted of a charge of assault in police court Thursday.

The charge was laid by Jack Mack, a union member, who alleged he was assaulted in the union offices.

Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan said yesterday that "lively interest is expected in the Boundary Lake oilfield offerings and the few parcels in the rich Mulligan Creek area should prove attractive."

He said bidding is expected to be brisk for the drilling reservations which were nominated by the oil and gas companies.

SEARCH INTENSIFIED

The fact that British Columbia now has 177 gas wells and 53 oil wells, in production or capable of production, has intensified the search for oil and gas in this province.

On Aug. 14 oil companies paid a record $4,636,799.32 for 37 parcels and March 26 they paid $2,496,019.43 for 31 parcels.

It all means revenue to enrich the coffers of British Columbia.

Five of the permits to be sold Dec. 17 are in the Peace River district north and west of oil rich Fort Nelson.

Two of the permits are in the Flathead area in the southeastern corner of B.C. and the success of strikes on the Alberta side of the Rockies in this area is expected to intensify interest in B.C.

NINE RESERVATIONS

There are nine drilling reservations offered and these are scattered in the Peace River area. Of these, three are especially attractive interest—one is at Kitchie Lake close to the large gas well of Gulf States—El Paso, which is rumored to be one of the world's biggest wells, and the other two are north and east of the Pettit River discoveries of Gulf States.

Some 25 petroleum and natural gas leases will be offered. Nine of these are in the Beaton River oil field area where oil has been discovered and is being developed. Ten are in the Boundary Lake oil field area where development and production is under way. Two are in the Bulk Creek area which is predominantly gas and four are in the Stoddart area, north of Fort St. John.

Sealed tenders will be opened at 10 a.m. Dec. 17 at provincial mines department offices in Victoria.

Heavy Load Lightens on 17-Mile Walk

Receiving her mail from Mr. Fisher is Mrs. John Tront, 569 Toronto Street, one of 600 calls on the mailman's route. One advantage of the mailman's lot is the fact that the mail bag gets lighter as the day progresses—something to consider over a 17-mile hike.

Contrary to legend, dogs are not too much of a problem—for this mailman, at least. Maybe the friendly pat and the dog biscuits Mr. Fisher carries with him have something to do with it. At any rate, Danny was happy to see the mailman.

It Was Easy Route

Postman's Fast Clip Leaves Tyro Limp

By JIM TAYLOR

I tried walking a mailman's route yesterday and believe me, this is one male that did not get through.

Postmen, you know, are trying to get more money out of the federal government for wage increases. They feel that being rained on in winter, and boiled in summer while performing an essential service is worth more than $300 a month.

My trip was made to get a good look at a letter carrier in action. Promptly at 8 a.m., I started out for my first stop at a mail route, confidently muttering things like "Neither snow nor rain, nor heat, nor gloom of night..." Of course, the sun was shining brightly, but the thought was there, anyway.

My faithful guide was letter carrier Lloyd Fisher, 3151 Camosun, a tall, softspoken chap with one big fault. He walked with seemingly effortless strides that ate up six feet at a crack. From the start, I was scrambling to keep up, and from the start it was a lost cause.

Postal authorities swear they put me on one of the easiest routes in the city—a James Bay course only 17 miles long without a hill in sight. They were right, there were no hills; just streets and stairs, a ghastly combination that produced one wilted reporter by noon.

The trip couldn't be considered a success in terms of a pleasure outing.

Dead Letter Man

Fast stepper Fisher receives the top pay, a letter carrier can get, $300 a month for tramping that 17 miles a day toting a 20-pound sack, in addition to about three hours' work sorting his mail before he can deliver it.

This works out to about $65 a week take-home pay. Men just starting in the business get about $2,800 a year, and it takes four years to reach top trotting scale.

Biggest problem a letter carrier faces, according to route walkers, is the never-ending flood of advertising circulars which leaves the letter carrier at the mercy of any store that runs a sale.

In addition to the weight added to his load, the circulars, mean that he must stop at every house on his route, not just at the ones that receive mail on that particular day. For this "travelling salesman" job the letter carrier receives nothing extra.

Mr. Fisher puts new soles and heels on his work boots every five weeks, doing the work himself.

Unlike most of his co-workers, he has never been bitten by a dog, the traditional enemy of the postman. However he has been off work several times after falls on slippery steps along the route.

As he talked, the agile Mr. Fisher continued to distribute his mail, and when he finally broke for lunch your reporter broke for home. One more block, and I'd have been a candidate for the dead letter office.

Traffic Timing Has Faults

Victoria's traffic-signal timing is "haywire for weekends and holidays."

Assistant city engineer Norman Worsley made that admission yesterday. But his traffic division, in choosing the signal equipment being used now, is looking ahead to the day when the system can be converted to the type just installed in Ottawa.

Ottawa's new system allows the traffic engineer, from his office, to select signal timings best suited to traffic flow conditions at various times of day and days of the week as determined by studies.

Victoria's system now is on a fixed basis, set up to correspond with traffic flows on the average working day, and traffic doesn't follow the same patterns on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

Ultimate in signal control, he said, is the type used in Baltimore and several other U.S. cities: "electric eyes" send information on current traffic flows by radio to a central machine, and the machine figures out the correct signal-timings and controls the signals accordingly by radio.

Stag Party Impairs Bridegroom

NANAIMO — Thomas Edward Sullivan was fined $125 in Nanaimo police court today before his wedding.

Sullivan was charged with having care and control of a motor vehicle while impaired after a traditional bridegroom's stag party.

The Nanaimo truck driver was also prohibited from driving until Feb. 1.

Another Nanaimo man, Michael Wovehuk, was sent to prison for 30 days after pleading guilty to his second impaired driving offence. He was banned from driving for a year.

Around the Island

Driver Survives Car-Train Crash

DUNCAN — A 60-year-old man is in fair condition in hospital with injuries received when the car he was driving collided with a train engine just north of here.

In another accident last night, almost at the same time, the driver of a car at Cobble Hill escaped injury when the car went out of control, ran over a bank and was destroyed.

In hospital is Walter Shields of Second Street who received possible fractured ribs and a deep cheek gash. Police said his car was in collision with an E and N engine at the Sherman Road crossing about two miles north of here.

They said the train's engine said he saw the car's lights approaching the crossing but that it continued on even though he blew his steam whistle.

Police said the Shields car, in which he was alone, was destroyed but the driver could have been more seriously injured if he had not turned to go with the motion of the train. The car's front end was nearly torn from the frame.

The engine's steps on its left side were torn off.

In the second accident, on the old Victoria Road, near the Trans-Canada Highway, at Cobble Hill, driver Henry Wolters of Chemainus was uninjured.

CAMPBELL RIVER — Merchants are seeking ways and means of brightening up the main street at night.

The village commission has appointed Commissioner R. D. Jamieson to confer with the town's merchants to see what can be done.

DUNCAN — The school board is appealing to the Motor Vehicle Branch for permission to use two buses that the RCMP have condemned—until the end of the school year.

The board decided it can't afford to buy new ones until next year, when the money from the $1,155,292 school by-law is available.

NANAIMO — Miss Ina Allan, an employee of the city for 40 years, has been honored by the presentation of a gold pin in recognition of her long service.

CAMPBELL RIVER — Four vacancies will have to be filled on the board of school trustees for School District 72 in the Dec. 11 municipal elections.

Two of the seats will be from district representatives and two from the village.

CAMPBELL RIVER — Lawyer J. R. Caldwell and magistrate Roderick Haigh-Brown have been appointed conciliators in the salary dispute between School District 72 and teachers.

Mr. Caldwell will represent the board and Mr. Haigh-Brown will appear for the teachers concerned.

DUNCAN — Voters lists in both the city and North Cowichan have increased about two per cent in the last year. There have been 78 names added to the municipal lists and 30 in the city. Totals are now 3,819 in North Cowichan and 1,428 in the city.

Other Island News, turn to Page 5.

KYUQUOT — A Kyuquot committee which urged a full investigation into the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union some time ago has repeated its request.

The action was taken after the UFAW, the Fisheries Association of British Columbia and the Vessel Owners' Association urged an inquiry into the organization, production and marketing of fish in B.C.

"If such an inquiry is made our request should not be overlooked," a spokesman for the Kyuquot committee said last night. "A general housecleaning of this union is vital to the well-being of the B.C. fishing industry."

NORTH COWICHAN — Council will probably abandon a method of taxing trailers that the municipality pioneered more than a year ago.

"I feel it is not worth the trouble. I feel we ought to drop it," said Reeve C. A. P. Murlison.

He suggested the move be made until the provincial government develops a proper policy toward taxing trailers that will make it uniform among municipalities.

PARKSVILLE — Officers of British Columbia trade unions will be invited to a seminar here in January to discuss organized labor's role in democracy.

It is sponsored by the education committee of the Canadian Labor Congress and promoted by the B.C. Federation of Labor.

NANAIMO — Two local clubs will participate in the annual drama festival which will be held March 21 in Victoria's Oak Bay Junior High School.

They are the Yellowpoint group and the Phoenix Players of Nanaimo and Lantzville.

NANAIMO — Fire destroyed the kitchen in the home of Mrs. A. M. Thompson, 796 Albert Street, at 2:30 a.m. yesterday.

The blaze was caused by an overheated stove.

Polio Victim Improving

LAKE COWICHAN — Robin Erickson, 6, this area's first polio victim this year, is resting comfortably in hospital at Victoria, her mother said last night.

Mrs. Henry Erickson of South Shore Road said the little girl is not in an iron lung and that doctors say she is improving.

Robin was taken directly to Royal Jubilee Hospital a week ago after doctors diagnosed the illness, she said. Neither Robin's sister, Penny, 14, nor her parents have contracted the disease.

One Reeve Agrees, Two Don't

One reeve agreed and two disagreed yesterday with the city's claim that intermunicipal sharing of school costs should be related to school needs within each municipality.

A report from City Manager C. C. Wyatt, presented to city council Thursday, showed that Victoria city has been paying substantially more per pupil than the other component municipalities of the Greater Victoria school district.

to remedy this situation through financial aid.

The city's argument, Reeve George Murdoch of Oak Bay said, "is nothing new to us."

Reeve George Chatterton said, "We've been battling the present system since 1946, when the Greater Victoria district was formed."

Each municipality should stand on its own feet, to be fair," he said. He "definitely" agreed that Victoria should pursue the matter — "We would be glad to help them."

Wyatt's use of "per-pupil" costs as a basis for sharing was unsound.

"It's been a well-recognized principle for many years that everybody must share educational costs because everybody benefits from it," Reeve Chatterton said, and he pointed out that school taxation is at approximately the same rate in all municipal portions of a school district.

But he said the time "is coming when the province will have to absorb more of the school costs."

Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt said his first reaction "is that in a built-up area such as Victoria, the centre of things, residences are replaced by shops and business buildings. The business district pays more for schools, and I can't see anything wrong with that."

But, he said, the city's complaint did emphasize the trouble with the present formula under which the province shares school costs with municipalities.

No Proof Laos Invaded

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—A UN fact-finding mission to Laos reported Friday that it didn't find proof of Communist aggression against the Southeast Asian kingdom which sits in the shadow of Red China.

The four-nation subcommittee of the UN Security Council said the information it received did not establish whether or not there had been crossings of the border by Communist troops from neighboring Communist North Viet Nam.

But the subcommittee—representing Argentina, Italy, Tunisia and Japan—did say there was evidence Laotian rebels received military supplies and political advisers from Communist sources.

MONTREAL (CP)—Four men were killed Friday when a freshly poured concrete roof, laced through with steel reinforcing rods, collapsed while a construction crew worked on it.

All of the workers on the job were not accounted for until nearly 10 hours after the collapse. Twenty were injured, none critically. Six remained in hospital in good condition and 14 were released after treatment.

Cause of the crash remained a mystery. Police, firemen and other members of the construction gang used bulldozers, cutting torches and their own hands to probe the rubble. Ambulances stood by in case their efforts turned up any survivors.

But there was little hope

Jet Missile Test-Fired

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—A turbojet-powered Snark guided missile carrying a dummy version of the nuclear warhead it could deliver at intercontinental range was fired on a 5,000-mile test flight yesterday.

that anyone could be alive under the tons of wet concrete that thundered down at the east-end plant of Johnson and Johnson, a surgical supply company. Rescue work grew increasingly difficult as the concrete slowly hardened.

About 50 men were pouring the concrete roof for a one-storey extension to the plant when it suddenly gave way.

Lucien Trepanier, operating a crane hoisting buckets of the wet cement to roof level, said it fell with a roar "just like a thunderclap." The concrete was being poured about 10 inches thick.

"We heard everyone shouting for help. It was a terrible thing,"

Rene Morisset, superintendent with the Dombro Construction Company building the extension, said:

"I don't really know how it came down. Things happened so fast."

Dead are: Andrew Kish, 38, a carpenter foreman for Dombro; Alvin Monette, 45, of Montreal's Rosemount district; Jack Manduzzi, 23, of suburban St. Michel, and Akular Fillipo, who died later in hospital.

Dam Proposed

Lands and Forest Minister Ray Williston, speaking at Nelson yesterday, promised the provincial government will finance the construction of the $66,000,000 high Arrow Lakes dam on the Columbia River if three requirements are met—approval of Kootenay residents, development of fully effective flood control, and equitable power benefits from the United States.

Driver Killed, Five Injured

MELVILLE, Sask. (CP)—A head-on collision near this railway and farming town Friday night killed driver Adam Crookshanks, 40, and sent five others to hospital.

Chamber Readies Big Guns

A December referendum on fluoridation in all four Greater Victoria municipalities—including holdout Esquimalt—now appears possible.

And the pro-fluoridation committee of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce will fire its biggest campaign cannon just before voting day with the mailing out of 50,000 sets of pamphlets, the Colonist also learned last night.

"It may be that since Oak Bay, Saanich and I hear, Victoria, are in favor, then the councillors may change their opinion," said Esquimalt's Reeve A. C. Wurtele last night.

FIRST ON TAP

"I can't think that we would ever be that stubborn," he said. (Apparently a reference to the fact Esquimalt is "first on the tap" in a joint water connection with Victoria and Saanich, which would be out of luck if Esquimalt said "no.")

Chamber committee chairman Ira Hill, asked what he thought of the suggestion from some quarters that a public forum be held on the question, said:

"You won't get any of our doctors and dentists going for a public forum. They're not interested in arguing about it. We aim to keep the public informed through the newspapers," he said.

50,000 PAMPHLETS
"We'll also be sending pamphlets to every household in Greater Victoria—50,000 of them."

Another committee member, Eric Mallett, indicated last night that a public forum would serve no useful purpose.

Look at what happened when we held a public rally on amalgamation," he said. "All the 'ants' with the gift of gab turned out." (Victoria voted 2 to 1 for, and Saanich voted 2 to 1 against, thus killing the merger.)

So far, only two municipalities—Saanich and Oak Bay—have officially decided to hold referendums.

VOTE IN FAVOR

But a poll of Victoria aldermen earlier this week indicated that city council, at its next meeting, will vote in favor of putting the issue to the voters.

Esquimalt council decided Oct. 26 against a vote, on the grounds there was too little time for council to study the matter and also for the voters to be properly informed.

"Contrary to what some people think, we're not a bit stubborn out here," Reeve Wurtele said last night.

He had just been asked what was his stand and what he thought council would be in the light of three out of four municipalities wanting a referendum.

LOTS OF THOUGHT
"We give lots of thought and deliberation to these problems," he said.

"Personally I feel, if the majority want a vote on fluoridation this December, I would be one of the last ever to hold them up."

Mayor Wins, Nikita Cheers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Mayor George Christopher received a note of congratulations upon his re-election yesterday from Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The Soviet leader, who, during his visit here in September, endorsed Christopher for re-election, said in his message of congratulations that he "undoubtedly would have voted for" him.

"I am very glad that my opinion coincided with that of the citizens of San Francisco," Khrushchev said.

Service Arms Should Unite Says Pearson

MONTREAL (UPI)—Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson suggested last night that the time might be ripe to merge Canada's three armed services into a single national force.

"The old distinctions between army, navy and air force were becoming 'increasingly meaningless,'" he told an Air Force Veterans Association armistice dinner.

Defence needs in the missile age led inevitably to "complete co-ordination of armed services, amounting to single control," he said. No one would be opposed to such a move if it was in the national interest, he added.

The Liberal leader called for a select Parliamentary committee or royal commission to investigate such questions as co-ordination of services and readjustment of defence expenditures. What was needed primarily, he said, was the

Canada, as a middle power, should concentrate on two main defence goals—contributions to a defence coalition and to an international police force, Pearson said. Today's defence needs were too complicated and expensive for a country of this size to try and meet all possible factors, he said.

At the same time, he added, it would be folly for a superpower to concentrate merely on the ultimate weapons of nuclear power. Such a policy could convert a limited conflict into an all-destructive war, he said.

Europe Shivers As Winter Hits

LONDON (Reuters)—Winter slammed into many parts of Europe Friday, bringing deep snows to the Italian Apennines and fog and ice in several other countries.

Drifts up to nearly three feet blocked about 200 trucks on one of the main highways linking Florence and Bologna. In the Italian Alps, several villages were isolated by floods.

In Britain, frost and fog upset road and rail traffic and delayed air services.

Britain's first super-highway, blanketed in thick fog, recorded its first fatal accident. The London-to-Birmingham highway was opened only five days ago.

Two men were killed when two trucks piled into the back of another truck and a police vehicle towing it.

Nixon Seeks Odd Refuge

Finlayson Agrees with Ottawa, Ship Cost 'Cause for Concern'

VANCOUVER (CP)—The federal government had no choice but to accept the lowest bids tendered for the construction of two ships for the West Indies costing about $5,000,000 each, Deane Finlayson, provincial Progressive Conservative leader, said Friday.

"I think that it is cause for concern here that our yards in British Columbia were approximately $1,000,000 higher than the yards which were awarded the contracts in eastern Canada," he said.

Mr. Finlayson's statement also said that Premier Bennett was "the architect of his own undoing" in failing to get a higher share of tax money under federal-provincial agreements.

"If our case is weak, it is weak because he alone has ruined it by his claim of tremendous prosperity in B.C.," he said.

Middle Age Will Begin at 100

LONDON (Reuters)—Man's life span will have been extended to from 150 to 200 years by the year 2009, a Russian scientist predicted Friday. Dr. Vladimir Demikhov, quoted by the Soviet news agency Tass, made the prediction in an article in the Moscow Evening News.

He added that 50 years from now Soviet hospital patients will be mostly middle-aged persons having aging hearts, kidneys and other organs painlessly replaced.

Medicine 50 years hence will concentrate on preventing diseases and postponing old age. The transfer of organs will have become a popular and safe method of treatment, Demikhov added.

Demikhov is noted for his experiments in transplanting the organs of animals. A week ago, he showed a Moscow lecture audience a dog which he said had been living for two weeks with two hearts.

Turning to the human application of these experiments, he said that transplanting—even temporarily—of a new organ might lead to recovery of a diseased or injured one.

The possibility is not excluded that implanting younger organs might rejuvenate the whole organism, he said.
